DO-X FINISHES HOP TO BRAZIL OVER ATLANTIC

World's Largest Plane Lands at Fernando, Noronha Island.

CAPE VERDE ISLANDS WAS TAKE-OFF POINT

Flight to New World Was Originally Projected by Dornier Last Year.

Fernando Noronha Island, Brazil, June 4 (A.P.).—The giant German seaplane DO-X landed here at 11:15 o'clock tonight, completing a flight of more than 1,400 miles from Porto Praia, in the Cape Verde Islands. Those aboard the ship said that the flight was entirely successful all the way.

The giant seaplane was prevented from communicating with the naval radio station here by exceedingly poor atmospheric conditions until shortly before she was sighted off the coast.

The DO-X was reported to be carrying thirteen persons when she took off from Porto Praia. With a great roar of her motors she left the water in 30 seconds in a perfect take-off.

The first radio message received at Porto Praia from the ship said that she was flying splendidly ata speed of 125 miles an hour. This speed, later messages from the ship in the course of her flight indicated, was considerably increased at various tifes.

Amonf the occupants of the plane was the Portuguese admiral, Gago Coutinho.

The Do-X is the largest flying boat in the world and today's flight was the longest over the water that she has yet undertaken.

When the giant German DO-X finally lifted herself from the waters off Porto Praia in the Cape Verde Islands and headed for Brazil, she carried with her long-deferred German hopes that the huge passenger ship would make way to the New World under her own power.

The flight from Porto Praia to Brazil, a distance of about 1,400 miles, is the longest trip over the ocean that the DO-X has yet undertaken. On her flight to the Cape Verde Islands she followed the European and African sea coasts, making many stops en route.

It was in October, 1929, that the Do-X astonished the world by taking into the air 169 persons and flying for an hour at an altitude of 1,200 feet over Lake Constance, on which she had been built. In November, 1930, the ship was ready for a flight to the United States, and in preparation made a number of test flights which carried her over Holland, England and France. In England the Prince of Wales made a flight in her and for ten minutes took over the controls.

Blaze Destroyed One Wing.

From Calshot the Do-x flew down the French coast, making a descent off La Rochelle and then taxiing for 50 miles to a point near Bordeaux. This was her first test of ability to weather a lengthy trip on the surface.

Because of the lateness in the season, the flight to the United States was abandoned and plans were made for the trip to Brazil.

On November 27, the DO-X reached Lisbon and it was while there that

Wilkins' Polar Vessel Begins Trip to England

Provincetown, Mass., June 4 (A.P.).—The submarine Nautilus in which Sir Hubert Wilkins and a group of scientists hope to go to the North Pole, left Provincetown harbor for England at 10 o'clock tonight.

The Nautilus had spent the day here in speed trials. The Coast Guard cutter Ponchartrain accompanied her out tonight and will act as a convoy as far as the Grand Banks.

(Associated Press.)

One of the Coast Guard's patrol cutters will accompany the Nautilus, Sir Hubert Wilkins' North Pole submarine, for several days on its forthcoming test trip to Europe.

The Nautilus is expected to sail from New London this week. Either the Mojave or the Pontchartrain will accompany her to give any assistance that may be required.

Woodcock May Quit War on Speakeasies

Prohibition Director Indicates Government Has About Washed Hands of Ousting Blind Bars; Problem Put Up to States.

(United Press.)

Federal Prohibition Director Amos W. Woodcock has about washed the hands of the Federal Government of any attempt to clean out speakeasies, a mushroom growth of prohibition, as part of the new approach to enforcement which takes cognisance chiefly of the big commercial liquor operator.

Speakeasies ought to be handled by local agencies instead of the Federal Government, in Mr. Woodcock's opinion, and while the Government will help as far as possible where local police apparently intend to do nothing, he indicated that any general control of the new-fangled saloon would not be attempted.

The prohibition enforcement generalissimo made this revelation when he returned here yesterday from a six weeks' trip which took him all over the West and Northwest, as well as to Hawaii, and, in particular, to Reno, Nev., where many speakeasies are reported to be doing a rushing business serving the thirsty, who have gone there to get divorces or gamble—or both.

Mr. Woodcock was led to talk of speakeasies in connection with inquiries from a large group of newspapermen as to the situation in Reno.

"Reno is no different from any other place in respect to my knowledge of it," he said. "My agents at Reno tell me the selling of liquor is now behind barred doors. The effort has been to drive the open saloon to cover."

He was then asked if the Federal Government intended to do any more than drive the saloons from the streets, behind closed doors, and in replying he pointed out that Nevada, a big State, has only 90,000 people—some placing the population at only 60,000—and that only a few agents, necessarily could be used there. The Government is doing about all it can do, he said. He added that one sheriff was cooperating with the Government agents.

This led to some reference to New York City, haven of palatial speakeasies with plush carpets and carved bars, and then the prohibition director outlined his policy as to the speakeasy.

"We think the speakeasy problem ought to be cared for by local au-

JAHNCKE ADDRESSES CLASS AT ANNAPOLIS

Of 441 New Graduates, 392 Accept Commissions in U. S. Navy.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—"Leadership, inspiration and loyalty are your three cardinal influences, and the success of your career in the service depends upon the example which you set for your subordinates," Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke told the 442 graduates of the United States Naval Academy here today prior to awarding them their diplomas.

Mr. Jahncke said that it is to the Navy first of all that the Nation looks for protection against foreign aggression.

Several thousand relatives and friends of the graduates, as well as undergraduates from every State in the Nation, who had been here for the week's ceremonies, crowded spacious Dahlgren Hall, where commencement exercises were held, and joined in plaudits as, one by one, the graduates advanced to the official platform and received the coveted parchment from the hands of the assistant naval chief.

The only other address was by Rear Admiral Thomas C. Hart, superintendent of the academy, who highly commended the class for its excellent scholastic attainments and gave advice as to shaping careers for the service.

High ranking officers of the Navy and Marine Corps and a sprinkling of senators and representatives occupied seats on the platform. Included among these was Admiral William V. Pratt, Maj. Gen. Ben H. Fuller, commandant of the Marine Corps; Senator Phillips Lee Goldsborough, of Maryland; Representative Stephen W. Gambrill, of the Fifth Maryland District, and Representative Johnson, of South Dakota.

While there were 441 graduates in all, commissions went to 392 for three different arms of the service. A total of 356 become ensigns in the regular line, 24 accepted commissions as second lieutenants in the Marine Corps and 12 became ensigns in the Supply Corps. Thirty-six resigned voluntarily to enter business careers, and the resignations of 12 others because of physical disqualifications were accepted. One graduate, Jose Francesco, of Manila, P. I., was not commissioned. He will return to his home to assume an official post.

Graduates who remained in the service were granted a month's leave, after which they will go to their respective posts of duty in the fleet. Seventeen are residents of the District of Columbia, all but three of whom preferred careers in the service.

BRIDE URGES HIGHER BONDS, MORE TRIALS

Corporation Counsel Offers Plan to Check Offenses by Motorists.

Amendments in the collateral system of exacting penalties for minor traffic violations, intended to make trial mandatory for more serious violations, were recommended yesterday by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride in a memorandum to Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, District Commissioner in charge of the Police Department.

The purpose of the changes, Mr. Bride said, is to stem the tide of increasing offenders against certain traffic rules, particularly the passing of a red signal light and parking abreast in the congested area.

Corporation Counsel Bride also yesterday issued more stringent rules regarding the trial for minor motor vehicle collisions which have been clogging the court docket. The purpose of these instructions, issued to Stanley DeNeale, assistant corporation counsel assigned to Police Court, is to eliminate many trivial cases.

Five changes in the collateral order, issued by the District Commissioners on March 26, 1929, were recommended by Mr. Bride.

A motorist who passes a red signal light or disobeys any similar signal device will, under the new regulations, have to deposit a minimum collateral of $15, and must appear in Police Court for trial. The present collateral fee is only $5 and may be forfeited.

The collateral fee for parking abreast in the congested area will be raised from $5 to $10; for the outlying districts the fee will still be $5.

More stringent penalty is urged for motorists who "interfere with moving traffic in drawing out from the curb." The minimum collateral is to be raised from $5 to $10 and the offender will be required to appear in court.

The minimum collateral for "failing to equip vehicle with suitable sound signal device" will be raised from $2 to $5.

For "operating a vehicle on dead or borrowed tags" an offender is to be required to deposit a minimum of $25 and to appear in court. The minimum now is $10.

Regarding the course of procedure in handling collision cases, Mr. Bride told Mr. De Neale:

"(1) Where a policeman is present at the time of the collision, papers will be issued only upon his request, except where one of the parties will personally swear to the papers and you are satisfied there was a violation of law.

"(2) Where no policeman is present at the collision, the officer to whom the complaint is made will instruct both parties that he is unable to swear to any information and that if

Despondent Over Bad Eyes, Youth Kills Self With Gun

Mother Discovers Body of George Washington University Student Who Feared Poor Eyesight Would Prevent Admission to West Point.

Apparently fearing that poor eyesight would bar him from the Military Academy at West Point, Richard McKirdy, 19, son of an attorney in the Internal Revenue Bureau, yesterday killed himself at his home on Forty-fourth street near Volta place northwest.

The body was found by his mother, Mrs. Nora McKirdy, after he had been in his room all day. She broke down the door and discovered him lying in his bed, his face to the wall and a .22 caliber bullet in his right temple. She called the family physician, Dr. Harry A. Long, who pronounced the youth dead.

Police were told that the youth, who was in the second year at George Washington University, had brooded over his poor eyesight. He had told his mother, it is said, that if he ever became a burden because of the failure of his eyes he would do away with himself. At this time, he suggested that gas would be a good method. Although he had wanted to go to West Point, members of the family said last night that he had not taken the examinations.

The father, James McKirdy, of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, was not at home when the body was found, about 5:45 o'clock. The mother and the youth's sister, Louise, a student

DRYS DISCLOSE DEMANDS UPON PARTIES IN '32

New Allied Forces Will Back Them Up With Pledged Votes.

WASHINGTON WOMAN LEADER IN PROGRAM

Planks, Nominees Friendly to Prohibition Price of Support at Polls.

(Associated Press.)

The newly formed Allied Forces for prohibition expect to go to the Republican and Democratic conventions next year armed with a million or more pledged votes demanding dry planks and dry candidates.

This was made known yesterday by Dr. Daniel A. Poling, of New York, chairman of the Allied Forces, in announcing that Mrs. Rushmore Patterson, of Washington and New York, had accepted the chairmanship of the women's branch.

The organization plans to open its campaign in Columbus, Ohio, September 8. Between then and October 18, three-day campaigns in major cities throughout the country are contemplated, followed by constant meetings until next July in 257 cities. Senators Borah (Republican), Idaho, and Sheppard (Democrat), Texas, Poling said, are to join a corps of speakers in carrying the dry campaign directly to the people.

Objectives of Movement.

Dr. Poling said the ultimate goal of the movement, which he described as the most pretentious since the advent of prohibition, is to retain the eighteenth amendment, but that the immediate objective is the political conventions of next year. After that, he indicated a reorganization of the forces would be effected for the presidential campaign.

Poling estimated the minimum cost of the plans at $350,000, with the maximum dependent upon contributions.

Mrs. Patterson, in her first statement as chairman of the allied women, described herself as a "meek dry" who is "now led to action because I think it is time that all women should become active who know the eighteenth amendment aims at better social and economic conditions, and who believe that it should have a better opportunity to prove its value."

Dry Chief Finishes Tour.

"Allied women are in no sense reformers," she said. "They are just common sense persons of the feminine gender, throwing their support to a law in which they have faith."

Meanwhile, Prohibition Director Woodcock returned from an inspection tour of the West and Honolulu and reported enforcement conditions "encouraging."

After two weeks in the Capital, he expects to complete his tour of Continental United States with a trip to the South. Beginning at New Orleans, he plans to go to Texas and then work back across the South before July 1, when all of the 500 new agents provided by Congress are to be added.

Woodcock said the most direct general improvement in enforcement conditions was resulting in driving liquor-selling behind closed doors and that local authorities would be depended upon largely to handle such violators. He said this condition was particularly noticeable in Reno, Nev., the last stop of his tour. He added public sale of intoxicants had been virtually stopped.

ITALY MARKS TIME AS PIUS SEEKS PEACE

Vatican Diplomats Study Critical Situation in Truce Effort.

OUTDOOR PROCESSION FORBIDDEN BY POPE

Fearing Renewed Attacks, Corpus Christi Fete Is Observed Indoors.

Rome, June 4 (A.P.).—The ablest diplomats in the court of Pope Pius conferred with him today regarding the critical situation between the church and the state, but the Italian government apparently was making no move toward conciliation.

On the other hand, members of the Catholic clubs which have been closed by government order have been informed that up to July 1 they are eligible for membership in Fascist organizations. After that date they will be required to work their way up through the Fascist ranks to eligibility.

Church Curtails Processions.

The Marchese Pacelli, attorney to the Pope and brother of the papal secretary of state, attended the conference with the pontiff this morning. It has been reported that the marchese, with Cardinal Gasparri, has been conducting informal negotiations for a settlement of the dispute.

As a gesture of protest against the dissolution of Catholic clubs the Pope today forbade the customary religious processions commemorating Corpus Christi Day outside the Catholic churches.

Feared Renewal of Attacks.

The ceremonies were held inside and the priests in Italy's 20,000 parishes explained to their congregations that the unusual procedure was taken because there was no guarantee that the Corpus Christi processions would be free from danger of interruption by those who have engaged in anti-Catholic demonstrations for the past week or so.

The Fascist newspapers made no comment on this development, nor did they carry any editorial expressions in connection with the controversy. Neither did the government make any outward response.

It was learned today that the pontiff had sent a second note of protest to the government following that which Foreign Minister Dino-Grandi declined to receive last Friday.

Cut in Dole Payments Advocated in England

London, June 4 (A.P.).—Reduction in weekly dole payments is recommended in a majority report by the royal commission on insurance, made public today.

The interim document advocates reductions by 50 cents a week for men and women over 21, who now draw from $3.50 to $4.25 a week. Proportionate reductions are recommended for younger recipients.

Soviet Agents Arrive In Paris for Trade Pact

Paris, June 4 (A.P.).—A delegation from Soviet Russia arrived today to negotiate a commercial treaty with France.

They seek to increase trade between the two countries, which has been falling since last October, when France imposed the license system, designed to protect the country against Soviet dumping.

'Boss' Gambler Seen As Workers Are Held

Captive in Ninth Street Raid Tells Police Employes Must Run Place or Be Fired; Drive Forces Bookmakers Into Street.

Existence of a "boss" who compels his subordinates to operate his gambling establishment or be "fired" was established yesterday by headquarters detectives "looking for a couple of fellows" as they descended on another gambling house.

Although police were unable to obtain the identity of the "boss" from the arrested men, the story told them is that, although the operators would rather be inactive for a while, they carry on the establishments rather than lose their jobs.

In the raid on the alleged gambling establishment on Ninth street near D street northwest the detectives arrested William Baroni, 31 years old, wh oyesterday morning demanded a jury trial on a charge growing out of one of the earlier raids.

The detectives arrested twenty habitues as Government witnesses and charged Baroni with permitting gaming. About twnety men escaped over adjoining roofs when the detectives entered.

"I wish you would get those two fellows you are looking for," said one of the men arrested. "We are losing $200 a day because of these raids."

Baroni told Detective Sergts. Larry O'Dea, Arthur Fihelly, Howard Ogle and O. W. Manfield that he had been ordered to open up by the "boss."

"Why didn't you refuse?" asked Ogle.

"If I had refused I would be looking for a job tomorrow."

The detectives gained admission to the place through two electrically operated doors. Their entrance was the signal for mad scrambling for the exits.

They confiscated blackboards, racing forms and other gambling slips and papers.

On the wall was a sign, reading: "Positively no gambling allowed."

Activity of the headquarters men has driven the bookmakers to the street. Curbstone bookmaking has shown a marked gain in activity. Instead of gamblers doing business in the gambling resorts, they are now meeting "runners" and "commission men" on the streets, who are placing bets for them with the bookmakers. entrdoinETAOIN UN ann

CALL OF WANDERLUST LURES LINDBERGHS ON PACIFIC HOP TO CHINA

Aerial Sightseeing Trip to Follow Coast Line by Way of Alaska.

GOVERNMENT ASSISTS IN PLANS FOR FLIGHT

Journey in Easy Stages Is Proposed to Lessen Possible Risk.

DATE FOR DEPARTURE HAS NOT BEEN FIXED

Details of Route Remain to Be Worked Out by Atlantic Hero.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Poets have various names or phrases for it. In the case of a land-bound sailor, they refer to it as the "lure of the sea;" in the case of a restless fellow who would roam over terra firma, the "call of the open road." But there really is not much difference. In either case it is an overpowering, unconquerable impulse to go some place; in short, wanderlust.

And that, it may be said, is what is sending Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on another major flight—this time across the Pacific to Japan and China.

The Eagle wants to try his wings again. His mate wants to go along. However, they have decided that their offspring, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., will be left at home.

He's Fed Up on Fame.

In his flight from New York to Paris, Lindbergh was seeking fame and fortune. He won both. According to his friends, he is "fed up" on fame. As for money, he has plenty of it, and his wife has plenty more.

When Col. Lindbergh will take off for the Orient is not definitely known. The State Department said yesterday that he would start within a month, but in New York last night the flier said he did not think he could be ready in that time. It was possible, he said, that he would not take off before late in the summer.

Col. Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh, the former Anne Morrow, had been planning their Asiatic trip for weeks. Three days ago Col. Lindbergh came to Washington, put up at the Racquet Club and set out to make arrangements for it.

He saw the Japanese Ambassador, Katsuji Debuchi, and the Chinese Minister, Chao-Chu Wu. They were enthusiastic about the flight.

Then Col. Lindbergh saw Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, who took him to his S street home for luncheon and promised to make all the necessary diplomatic arrangements.

Trip Purely "Sightseeing."

Yesterday, in announcing Col. Lindbergh's plans at the latter's request so that "if the press were interested" all the newspapers could get it at the same time, Undersecretary Castle made it plain that the flight was not to be regarded as a "good will" tour, but simply as an aerial sightseeing trip.

"Our sole purpose in going," said Col. Lindbergh had told the diplomat, "is to see the Orient."

Four years ago, after Col. Lindbergh had flown from New York to Paris and had won immortality and a $25,000 prize offered by Raymond Orteig, quite a few Americans—Pro Bono Publico, Constant Reader and others—insisted that Col. Lindbergh henceforth be kept on the ground, lest America lose its greatest hero.

Col. Lindbergh's answer upon his arrival in Washington on the cruiser Memphis in June, 1927, was to take off in an Army pursuit ship (the Spirit of St. Louis was disabled) and fly to New York.

Since then he has flown everywhere, scorning trains, boats and buses.

In his flight to Paris, "Slim" Lindbergh, as he was called then, carried along a sandwich and a letter of introduction to the late Ambassador Myron Herrick. And on getting out of his plane at Le Bourget, he is re-

4 DOCTORS SAY FALL IS TOO ILL FOR JAIL

Pomerene Asked to Order Medical Examination of Former Secretary.

El Paso, Tex., June 4 (A.P.).—Four physicians concurred in a statement today that Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior, is physically unable to go to Washington for commitment to jail in connection with a bribery conviction.

In response to a request from his counsel, Mr. Fall was given a physical examination by his personal physician, Dr. H. T. Safford, here today. Results of the examination were not announced.

Frank Hogan, Fall's attorney at Washington, asked that a report of the former Secretary's condition be telegraphed and detailed certificates forwarded by mail. Mr. Hogan stated the report of the physicians would be presented to the trial judge of the District of Columbia Supreme Court, where Fall was convicted of accepting a bribe from E. L. Doheny, oil man. The report was to accompany a request for suspended operation on Fall's sentence of a year in jail and a fine of $100,000.

At the same time, Mr. Hogan said he had requested Atlee Pomerene, of Government counsel, to designate physicians in El Paso to examine Mr. Fall so that if possible a trip by Fall to Washington to receive commitment would not be necessary.

Mr. Hogan said he had received no answer from Pomerene, who was at his home in Cleveland.

(Associated Press.)

District Attorney Leo A. Rover said last night that if former Interior Secretary Fall's physical condition precludes his coming to Washington to begin serving a year's prison sentence for bribery, the Government obviously can do nothing until his health improves.

He made this statement after being informed that four physicians had examined Fall at his home in El Paso, Tex., and agreed he was unable to make the trip. The district attorney pointed out, however, that the next move lies with Atlee Pomerene, special Government prosecutor, and not with his office.

The Supreme Court on Monday declined to review his case and today

HINDENBURG SCANS MONEY RELIEF PLAN

Emergency Decrees to Yield $414,000,000 May Be Issued Tomorrow.

Berlin, June 4 (A.P.).—A series of emergency decrees, designed to improve Germany's economic condition by yielding approximately $414,000,000, today held the attention of President Paul Von Hindenburg, preparatory to making them public, probably on Saturday.

The decrees are understood to contain further drastic cuts in national expenditures, and to call for increased taxation. They were drawn up by Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, and handed to the president before they left for London last night.

A number of newspapers expressed apprehension over the measures, one of them demanding that the Reichstag be convoked to quash them. Speakers over the radio tonight, however, appealed to the press to remain silent on the subject until after the decrees are published. They added that every class would be affected equally.

Meanwhile, the bourse responded favorably, some prices rising as much as seven points.

About 24 ordinances are said to be involved in the measures under five heads: New taxation, saving measures, unemployment reform, new measures for relief of unemployment, and new sources of revenue in various states within the German Reich.

Under saving measures they are reported to cut the war office budget by some $11,500,000. Other reductions in the budget are included, as well as lower wages in the civil service and a decrease of 4 per cent in war pensions.

It is hoped that about $161,000,000 will be realized from increased taxation, which includes a new "crisis tax" on incomes, ranging from 1½ to 4 per cent.

Persons under 21 years of age and farm laborers will no longer be included in unemployment doles and relief payment to seasonal workers will be reduced, according to unofficial reports. There also will be new taxes on tobacco, sugar and mineral oils.

It is generally agreed that the emergency decrees will require the greatest effort of every citizen, with

Holdup Man Loses Nerve To Dentist; Takes $1 Gift

Quaking Youth Leaps From Chair, Points Pistol at Dr. Silliman and Decides He "Can Not Go Through With Job;" Flees Office.

A would-be hold-up man summoned all his courage late yesterday afternoon and settled himself in a dentist's chair.

The "patient" stretched his jaws apart as Dr. Walter B. Silliman, stared into the oral cavity.

The doctor looked at the "ailing" tooth. Then he turned away. The youthful patient leaped from the chair and pointed a pistol at the dentist.

"It's my first job; I can't go through with it," said the quaking "bad man."

Utilizing his best professional stare, Dr. Silliman patted the youth on the back and said, "Give me the gun, sonny."

"I can't," said the quailing youth, "All right, here's a dollar for you," said the dentist.

Then the "hold-up man" fled from the doctor's office at 917 New York avenue.

Which only goes to prove that even hold-up men lose their nerve in a dentist's chair.

puted to have said, "I am Charles A. Lindbergh"—as if all the world didn't know who he was.

Flying Regulations Changed Now.

But conditions have changed since then. Nowadays, fliers have to be much more formal. In flying over foreign countries, they must have the permission of those countries. And that is why Col. Lindbergh came here three days ago.

Yesterday Under Secretary of State Castle sent out two cablegrams, one to Ambassador Cameron Forbes in Tokyo, Japan; the other to Minister Nelson T. Johnson, at Shanghai, China. The two American diplomats were requested to make the necessary arrangements, to obtain from the Japanese and Chinese governments the necessary permission, so that the Lindberghs may set out on their flight.

There is a possibility that Col. Lindbergh will want to pass over, or land on, Russian territory. In that case, Col. Lindbergh will have to deal with Russia himself. The State Department can not communicate with Russia, inasmuch as the United States has not recognized the Soviet government.

Russia Would Welcome Fliers.

There will be no difficulty here, however. Boris E. Skvirsky, head of the Russian Trade Information Bureau, said yesterday that Col. Lindbergh would be welcomed to Russia; that his government would be "delighted" to have him. The Russians have not forgotten that Col. Lindbergh greeted the Russian plane, "The Land of the Soviets," when it landed in New York in 1929.

Using a Lockheed-Cirius, a snail-like monoplane with the cockpit above the wings, the Lindberghs are expected to take off from near their home in New Jersey and head for the West Coast. Then they are expected to fly up the coast to Alaska or British Columbia, whence they will start stage-by-stage hop to the Orient.

Once they are ready to take off for the transpacific hop, they will put pontoons on their plane so that they may land on the water. These pontoons were ordered several weeks ago.

Will Not Endanger Wife.

From the standpoint of danger, the flight that Col. Lindbergh now contemplates does not begin to compare with his New York-to-Paris flight. If it did, he would not be taking Mrs. Lindbergh along.

Col. Lindbergh, in his conversation with Undersecretary of State Castle, said that he planned to make the trip by easy stages, and he emphasized that he did not plan to do anything "silly"—anything that might endanger Mrs. Lindbergh.

Before he leaves, he will, as is his custom, have made all possible preparations. He will have designated the places where he expects to land, and there he will have gasoline and other supplies awaiting him.

Whether he will equip his plane with radio has not been made known, but there seems to be little doubt that the Navy will have ships on the lookout for him, just as it did when the Army round-the-world fliers were traversing that part of the world.

Has Not Worked Out Route.

So far, Undersecretary of State Castle said yesterday, Col. Lindbergh has not yet worked out the route he proposes to take on his flight to the Orient. Nor, he said, has he decided whether he will come back by plane or by boat.

If Col. Lindbergh wanted to fly directly across the Pacific—from Victoria, B. C., to Yokohama, Japan, say—he would have to travel 4,200 miles without a stop, a distance vastly greater than that he traveled in going from New York to Paris. Needless to say, this will be one route he will pass up.

A glance at the map will disclose a group of islands not far off the Alaskan coast. These are the Aleutians. The most westerly of these is Attu. From Attu to Shumstui, the nearest island of the group that makes up the Japanese Empire, is 800 miles. That is not so much for Lindbergh.

May Start Late in Summer.

This, however, is not the shortest route. From Attu, the Westernmost of the American-owned Aleutians, to the Kamchatka Peninsula, which is Russian-owned, is 100 miles or more shorter. To land on the peninsula, however, would mean that Col. Lindbergh would have to ask permission of the Soviet government.

In an interview with the Associated Press in New York last night Col. Lindbergh said that he probably would not be ready for his flight before the end of the summer.

The prospect is, therefore, that he is not likely to pass Beiji Yoshihara, the "Lindbergh of Japan," who is expected to take off again June 26 on a flight from Tokyo to San Francisco. Yoshihara failed in his last attempt.

The Japanese flier expects to make twenty stops on his journey. He will fly to the Kurile Island group and thence to the Kamchatka Peninsula before he starts out across the Bering Sea to Japan.

Weather Depends on Season.

If Col. Lindbergh took off this month, weather experts say, he would be likely to encounter good weather. Not knowing that he planned to delay his flight until possibly late in the summer, the experts have not yet made any definite predictions.

Gales and fog are to be found in the northern Pacific about 25 per cent of the time, it is said.

at Western High School, were alone in the house.

The weapon used was a .22-caliber revolver of a cheap make, and was found near him. Only one shell had been fired. He was in his room at the back of the third floor, and had not been seen by the family since 7:30 o'clock yesterday morning. His mother became alarmed when he failed to respond to a call to supper, and discovered him.

After talking to Dr. Long and police by phone, Dr. Joseph D. Rogers, deputy coroner, ordered the body removed to Etnes undertaking establishment, where he planned to view it later. He will issue a certificate of suicide, his office said.

The dead youth had come to George Washington University last fall from Antioch College, in Ohio. He was of a retiring disposition, friends said, and did not indulge in any outside activities at school. They suggested that the strain of studying for final examinations may have proved too much for him. Young McKirdy attended Georgetown Presbyterian Church.

Girl Married at 13, Suit Says.

Asserting that she was only 13 years old when her husband, William W. Chaney, of Oats street northeast, went through a ceremony with her in Maryland, February 14, 1928, Bernardine L. Her husband represented her age as 23 when he obtained the license, the suit alleges.

FEDERAL BOND ISSUE IS OVERSUBSCRIBED

Allotments in $800,000,000 Financing May Be Made Before Tonight.

(Associated Press.)

Popularity of Government bond issues through which the United States raised money for the World War was evidenced again yesterday when Secretary Mellon said an $800,000,000 issue announced Monday had been oversubscribed seven and one-half times in three days.

In a statement, Mr. Mellon said $6,000,000,000 had been subscribed for the eighteen-year, 3½ per cent bonds to be issued June 15. The allotments may be announced tonight.

While Treasury officials had expected the bond issue would be oversubscribed, the eagerness with which it was sought was received with surprise and credited to a desire by investors to put their idle money to work in safe investments.

It also was pointed out that Government bonds could easily be converted into cash. The bonds will be tax exempt except for inheritance, estate taxes and surtaxes.

Treasury experts agreed, however, that some of the oversubscription was due to padding by investors who, wishing a certain amount of bonds and knowing the issue would be oversubscribed, submitted proposals asking for three or four times the amount they actually wanted. By doing this they hoped that when the allotments were announced they would receive approximately the amount they wished.

The bond issue is the first move by the Treasury to reduce the size of its outstanding short-term paper through which funds have been raised to operate the Government in face of declining revenues and increasing expenditures.

Short-term paper outstanding now totals approximately $3,400,000,000 of the $800,000,000 raised through sale of bonds, of which $589,000,000 will be devoted to retiring maturing certificates of indebtedness and the remainder to other needs of the Government.

The reception given the issue increased belief that the Treasury would announce another bond issue either when the September financing is done next fall or in December. From July 1 to December 1 approximately $1,600,000,000 in short-term paper will mature.

Gen. Patrick Again Utility Board Head

Hartman Is Said to Have Been Renamed Vice Chairman of Commission.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick was yesterday reelected chairman of the Public Utilities Commission for another two-year term, and Harleigh H. Hartman was said to have been renamed vice chairman.

About the latter reelection, however, there was considerable misunderstanding that had not been entirely straightened out last night. The first report given out by Maj. John C. Gotwals, Engineer Commissioner, stated that the election concerned only the chairman and that the post of vice chairman was not mentioned.

Later in the afternoon, however, Gen. Patrick declared that the former organization was retained intact and that Mr. Hartman was renamed as well as himself. The minutes, he said, would so read. While the utilities law does not provide for the election of a vice chairman, it has been customary of recent years to name a vice chairman simultaneously with a chairman.

iams, William Baroni, Louis Polumbo, Thomas Simon, and Steve Nichols.

The courtroom was crowded with Government witnesses. Two failed to appear when their names were called and Judge John P. McMahon ordered that their bonds of $100 be forfeited, and he then issued an attachment for them. The two who were not on hand were Charles Hackney and Edward Wines.

Green Trial Continued.

Trial of Samuel Green on a charge of possession, a case growing out of the rambling raids, was continued until today to allow Attorney Harry T. Whelan time to consult authorities concerning such raids. The case was tried from the Government's side, and a motion was then made to strike out all the evidence on the ground that the raid was illegal.

In a raid on an alleged gaming establishment yesterday afternoon, Thoms R. Walsh, 34 years old, of Rhode Island avenue near Fourteenth street northwest, was charged with permitting gaming.

Four Government witnesses were arrested. The raid was conducted by members of Inspector T. R. Bean's vice squad. A quantity of alleged gambling paraphernalia was seized.

thorities. If they don't do it, we try to. We can do this—we can effectively prosecute by padlocking. We hope the closing of one will be a deterrent to others. We are not putting the emphasis of Federal enforcement on the speakeasies."

Mr. Woodcock, looking back over his year as prohibition enforcement director, said he is encouraged with the progress the bureau has made. Its personnel is better trained and more efficient in every way, he said.

He was asked about the general sentiment on prohibition in the parts of the country he visited. He never talked about sentiment, he said; nor does he discuss it with his agents. "I don't want them to get to thinking in terms of politics," he said. The whole aim of the bureau now is to train agents as investigators of the big commercial violators, he said.

"When the friends of prohibition come to me and ask me what to do, I tell them that education is the best thing. I think we will win that way," he added.

Preparatory to the renewed enforcement campaign which will begin after July 1, with 350 new agents provided by Congress, the 24 bureau instructors, who spend their time teaching agents in all parts of the country, will assemble here Monday for what Mr. Woodcock calls a "refresher course."

They will be instructed, primarily, in the "art of teaching," the dry director said, and through the good offices of the National Education Association, an instructor at Nebraska Wesleyan University, Prof. F. M. Gregg, of Omaha, will conduct a course in pedagogy. Then the agents will return to their teaching.

Mr. Woodcock will, during the next two weeks, visit the Southeast and Southwest, a prohibition district with headquarters at New Orleans, which will complete his inspection of all the enforcement districts with the exception of the one in this area, in which the District of Columbia is included.

The dry director reported that differences between the district attorney and enforcement officials in Hawaii had been smoothed out as a result of his visit, and that Hawaii would be made a special district. Hitherto it has been handled from San Francisco. There are no big violations in Hawaii, he said, though Japanese sell native liquor from house to house, surreptitiously.

HINDENBURG STUDIES MONEY RELIEF PLAN

people of modest means bearing their share of the burden. It is hoped to raise not only enough to cover the budget deficit, but to permit a balance to be turned over partly to Federal railroads for needed improvements and partly to a future reserve fund.

The text of the decree is expected to contain a preamble explaining the necessity for the steps and appealing to the German people to accept the burden of further sacrifice.

Aboard S. S. Hamburg, North Sea, June 4 (A.P.).—Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and Foreign Minister Julius Curtius, of Germany, bound for London for a conference with Prime Minister MacDonald on Anglo-German problems, retired early tonight for their second night of rest since leaving Berlin late Tuesday night.

Their conferences over the week-end with MacDonald and Foreign Minister Arthur Henderson, of Great Britain, will be held at Chequers, the prime minister's country house near London.

The heads of the German and British states will discuss their mutual problems informally for the first time since the World War. It is said unofficially the German statesmen will seek the aid of the British in securing some sort of reduction of the annual reparations payments, and it has been predicted that upon the success of this probable quest may depend even the life of Chancellor Bruening's government at home. They will also discuss, probably, the proposed Austro-German customs accord, the legality of which is under the scrutiny of the World Court.

If a move toward reparations reductions is made at Chequers, it is believed the Germans will ask for postponement of the "conditional" payments under the Young plan, which may be delayed two years by consent of the nation.

In the face of conditions at home it was expected the German statesmen may contend that the alternative lies between British aid in obtaining a moratorium or the inundation of Germany by a wave of nationalism.

JURY WILL BE GIVEN HAYNES' CASE TODAY

Justice Removes Limit on Arguments by Counsel in Banker's Trial.

Unexpected developments in the trial of Harry V. Haynes, indicted former head of the Farmers & Mechanics Bank, kept the case from going to the jury yesterday.

Counsel for both sides had been allowed three hours to address the jury, but Justice Gordon lifted that limit yesterday and allowed H. Winship Wheatley, defense attorney, and United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, prosecutor, unlimited time.

Mr. Wheatley took slightly more than three hours, and with the answering arguments of Mr. Rover, the jury was not able last night to get the charge of Justice Gordon. That will be given them this morning and the jury will have the case before noon.

Mr. Wheatley issued a blanket denial of any wrongdoings on the part of Mr. Haynes. He admitted that the former banker might have been guilty of unintentional mistakes, but that he had done nothing except to try to protect the bank and Mrs. Louise T. Chambers from losses. All the way through the case Haynes offered the same explanations.

The indictment confronting Haynes is in fourteen counts, charging false entry, misapplication of bank funds and abstraction of stock certificates. It was returned by the grand jury July 19, 1930.

441 GIVEN DIPLOMAS IN ANNAPOLIS CLASS

Assistant Navy Secretary Addresses Graduates at Academy.

The three who resigned are G. W. Bucholz, jr., H. P. Child and J. A. Mathews, jr.

All of the traditions of naval graduations marked today's exercises. Loud cheers for those who received diplomas came from the rest of the regiment of midshipmen, and the graduates in turn cheered lustily for those they leave behind them. And as a final climax, the graduates tossed their white service caps, for which they have no further use, into the air, and there followed a merry scramble among girl friends and young children to retrieve them as souvenirs.

With the exercises over the rush to the marriage altar got under way, with prospects that half a hundred weddings will take place within the next few days. Ten were celebrated at half hour intervals in the Academy Chapel this afternoon, Commander Frank H. Lash, chaplain, performing all ceremonies; three took place in St. Anne's Episcopal Church, two in St. Mary's Catholic Church, another in Calvary M. E. Church, two more are slated for the Naval Chapel tomorrow, and still others are scheduled for Washington, Baltimore and other cities in a few days.

Young men whose homes are in the District of Columbia, and a number of others from Virginia and Maryland were among the 441 midshipmen who received diplomas.

DO-X HOPS ATLANTIC TO LAND IN BRAZIL

a fire destroyed one of her huge wings. Repaired last January, she again took to the air, and on January 31 reached the Canary Islands. Again she was subjected to numerous delays and it was not until May 1 that she arrived at Rio de Oro, on the west coast of Africa. Three days later she reached Bolama, Portuguese Guinea, where she was delayed due to a revolution there then in progress.

On May 30, she flew to Porto Praia.

Her crew on these flights included Maurice Dornier, whose brother, Claude, designed her; Capt. Friedrich Christensen, who was in command; Harvey Brewton, of Paterson, N. J., who represented the American firm which built the Do-X's motors. Others aboard were:

Wilhelm Niemann, navigation officer; Horst Merz, first pilot; H. Von Claussbruch, second pilot; Henry Kiel, radio officer; Otto Eitel, chief engineer; Emil Fischer, Adolf Marquardt, Ernst Brombeis, Friedrich Schmidt and Heinrich Jaeger, mechanics. Paul Berner, technical director of the Dornier works at Altenrhein, Switzerland, where the Do-X was built, also was aboard.

Von Claussbruch replaced Clarence Schildhauer, American flier, as the second pilot. Schildhauer, whose work in the United States had not permitted him to remain with the Do-X because of the many delays, planned to rejoin her in Brazil and to help fly her on her South American trips.

The Do-X is the biggest flying boat in the world. She has twelve engines, each of 500 horsepower, and her cruising speed is about 120 miles an hour. Primarily she was designed to carry 100 passengers.

The south Atlantic has been crossed many times by planes and once by the Graf Zeppelin.

CURRENT EVENTS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

MONTGOMERY SOON TO GET NEW JUDGE

Peter Is Relieved of Juvenile Court Duty in Anticipation of Appointment.

Montgomery County Bureau of The Post, 9103 Conn. Ave., North Chevy Chase, Md. Telephone Wisconsin 4205.

In preparation for the selection of a juvenile court judge for Montgomery County, expected to be announced soon, the judges of the Sixth Judicial Circuit of Maryland yesterday promulgated an order relieving Judge Robert B. Peter, of the circuit court at Rockville, from the duties of this court.

The order was signed by Chief Judge Hammond Urner and Associate Judges Robert B. Peter and Arthur D. Willard, and revokes the order of the circuit judges dated November 12, 1923, which designated Judge Peter to "hear, try and determine," by virtue of chapter 326 of acts of 1916 of the General Assembly of Maryland, "the cases of dependent, neglected and delinquent children found in Montgomery County."

Judge Peter has discharged the duties of the juvenile court in addition to his regular duties in the circuit court for more than seven years, and in that time has attained a considerable reputation for his handling of the juvenile cases. Almost bizarre in his handling of some cases in comparison with the usages in other sections of the State and country, his theories have been found sound and workable in most instances and his decisions worthy of the laudation of those interested.

A juvenile court for the county was authorized at the last session of the Legislature in response to an almost universal demand throughout the county among clubwomen, social service workers and those interested in the case of delinquent and dependent children. It was felt that a full-time judge should be appointed and that Judge Peter should be relieved of his additional duties in view of the increase of juvenile court cases which has followed the rapid increase of population in Montgomery County.

New and lower telephone rates will become effective tomorrow in the Bradley and Silver Spring exchanges in suburban Montgomery County. The Maryland Public Service Commission has given its approval of the new rates and service, officials of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co announced. The new rates become effective tomorrow because that is the time for billing in these areas, telephone company officials said.

All subscribers on the Bradley and Silver Spring exchanges who wish to take advantage of the new service should make application at once, either in person or by letter to the Washington office of the company. Unless the company receives applications from the subscribers, no change will be made in the service.

Under the new arrangement, subscribers in Bethesda and Silver Spring will be placed on the Wisconsin and Shepherd exchanges, with local service to Washington and to the two exchanges, as well as to Silver Spring and Bradley exchanges, without additional tall charges. Subscribers living outside of the basic areas of the two exchanges will be allowed to take the service at a slightly higher cost, based on mileage. The new rates have been approved by the Montgomery County Civic Federation and other civic and business organizations in the area affected.

A slight improvement was noted in the condition of State Senator Robert G. Hilton, who is critically ill at Georgetown University Hospital, according to Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, the attending physician. Mr. Hilton, who also is president of the Farmers Banking & Trust Co. of Rockville, was removed to the hospital when his condition became critical. His home is in Rockville.

In addition to Dr. Perry, Dr. Edwin Behrn, consulting diagnostician; Dr. Lester Newman, consulting pathologist, and Dr. E. G. Bauersfeld, of Bethesda, are in attendance.

A total of 770 instruments was filed in the office of the clerk of the Montgomery County Circuit Court at Rockville, Clayton K. Watkins, in the month of May, according to the monthly report. These were divided as follows: 254 deeds, 162 mortgages and releases, 79 trusts and 275 bills of sale.

Irving C. Root, chief engineer of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will be principal speaker at the Kensington Day exercises today, under the auspices of the Kensington Chamber of Commerce, the Kensington Parent-Teacher Association, the Woman's Club of Kensington and other local organizations.

The program will begin this morning with an exhibit of work of children at the Kensington School, and the school rooms will be open to the public throughout the day and evening. The day's events will end this evening with a mass meeting at the school, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, at which Mr. Root, Lacy Shaw, president of the board of county commissioners; Maj. E. Brooke Lee, county Democratic leader, and other officials will speak.

Mr. Root will tell of plans for development of Rock Creek Valley and relation of these park plans to the growth of Kensington, Garrett Park and other towns in the Kensington area. Mr. Shaw and Maj. Lee will speak on county issues.

Telephone rates for the Kensington area will be the main topic of discussion at the evening meeting. Town residents want the Kensington area included in the new schedules which become effective in Silver Spring and Bethesda tomorrow. The parent-teacher association will hold its annual benefit luncheon at the school at noon.

The Service Company, First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, of Silver Spring, attained highest rating of all Maryland companies at annual inspection, it has been unofficially learned by Capt. Joseph C. Cissel, commanding officer. The company received a rating of 93.2 per cent at the inspection, which was made by Capt. H. H. Meyer, for the Federal Government, and Col. D. John Markey, for the State.

The company is preparing for the annual Maryland National Guard training camp at Camp Albert C. Ritchie, which begins July 25. An advance detail of 2 officers and 25 men will leave for camp July 23. There are several vacancies in the company for chauffeurs and clerks which it is hoped will be filled before camp time.

The Howitzer Company at Kensington also received a good rating, attaining a mark of 83.3 per cent. This company also is preparing for camp and expects to fill its vacancies before camp time.

Citizens of Chevy Chase Terrace have been warned that they must trim their hedges, in accordance with a recent law enacted by the State Legislature which requires that hedges must not obstruct traffic vision, by County Commissioner Robert D. Hagner, of the Bethesda area. Some of the hedges in the community have been permitted to grow to such a height that they seriously impair traffic vision, the commissioner said.

Mr. Hagner announced that the three circles in the community will be named in accordance with wishes of citizens, Beard, Busby and Amiss Circles. O. F. Busby is president of the Chevy Chase Terrace Community Association; R. D. Beard was one of the original settlers and H. D. Amiss is one of the town's leading citizens.

Chevy Chase Terrace plans to exhibit in the spring flower show of the Montgomery Suburban Garden Club which is to be at the Somerset School Saturday and Sunday. The community exhibit won first prize in its class in the 1930 show.

FRIENDS FIGHT PLAN TO IMPEACH HORTON

Rally to Tennessee Chief as Foes Seek Adoption of Eight Articles.

Nashville, Tenn., June 4 (A.P.).—Opponents and friends of Gov. Henry H. Horton took the floor in the Tennessee House of Representatives today to advocate and denounce in turn the movement to impeach him.

Among those engaging in the debate was Walter M. Haynes, speaker of the House, who argued for adoption of eight impeachment articles returned against the governor last week by a special committee of the House.

The House adjourned tonight until tomorrow morning without voting on an impeachment article. A motion to put the question failed, 47 to 51.

One of the articles charges the governor with conspiring with Col. Luke Lea, newspaper publisher, and Rogers Caldwell, financier, to receive their political support and the influence of newspapers they controlled in exchange for his manipulation of State affairs for their advantage and private gain.

Banks Mentioned in Attacks.

Four banks, described as controlled by Lea and Caldwell, which closed last fall with nearly $7,000,000 in State funds on deposit, were mentioned frequently in the attacks on the governor's administration today.

Speaker Haynes quoted employes of Caldwell & Co., investment banking house, and a subsidiary, the Bank of Tennessee, both of which collapsed last November, as testifying before a legislative committee investigating State affairs that large deposits were made "in a bank where the money could be used to speculate and gamble with."

"According to that testimony," he continued, "it would have been as safe for the people of Tennessee to have said 'take this public fund and go out on the open market and gamble on stocks and bonds and, if you win, turn back to Tennessee the principal and you keep the profits, but if you lose, Tennessee loses and you lose nothing.'"

Defender Says Evidence Weak.

Mr. Haynes said he did not charge Gov. Horton with "acting for his own private gain," but he said the record "discloses the fact that he permitted these things to go on."

Speaking in defense of Gov. Horton, Representative J. D. McMurry, of Truesdale, said any one familiar with court procedure knew that no grand jury would "indict a yellow dog" on evidence presented against the chief executive.

Mr. McMurry said statements that E. H. Crump, of Memphis, leader of the impeachment movement, was "out of the picture" were a "smoke screen," and that if "Ed Crump is not sidetracked, he will continue to strive to take Tennessee into the hollow of his hand and conduct Tennessee as he conducts Shelby County."

DEMOCRATIC RACES IN FAIRFAX CLOSED

Last Day for Candidates to File Passes With Many Entered in Primary.

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST, P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va. Phone Clarendon 2324-W-2.

Yesterday was the last day upon which candidates for the Democratic nomination for the various State and county offices from Fairfax County could file notice of their intention to run. All the county offices except that of county clerk are to be filled. The Democratic primary will be held August 4.

Two persons have filed as candidates for the State Senate. They are Charles T. Jesse, of Arlington County, and John W. Rust, of Fairfax. Three persons are seeking the nomination for the House of Delegates from Fairfax County. They are John C. Mackall, of McLean; Edmund H. Allen, of Newington, and Herbert Williams, of Woodford.

Wilson M. Farr, of Fairfax, who is seeking renomination for Commonwealth attorney, will be opposed by Harold F. Hines, of Herndon. James U. Kincheloe, of Fairfax, will be opposed by A. Page Wrenn, of Herndon, for county commissioner of revenue. Dr. F. W. Huddleson will have two opponents, C. C. Carr, of Five Oaks, and Alton Money, of Vienna, for the office of county treasurer. Sheriff E. P. Kirby will again have as his opponent Harvey M. Gross, of Fairfax, whom he defeated four years ago.

Among the most spirited fights in the county will be in the selection of the members of the county board of supervisors. All of the present incumbents have filed for reelection and each of them have competition with the exception of Kyle Davis, of Lee magisterial district. In Mount Vernon district, W. F. Pierce Reid, chairman of the board, is opposed by Herbert O. Blunt.

Falls Church magisterial district is at present without a supervisor, but the office is being sought by C. H. Powell, who resigned last month when threatened with a suit charging malfeasance of office; Vernon M. Lynch, of Annandale, present member of the county school board, and John W. Kerns, of Falls Church, a former member of the district road board. In Providence district, Harry Leigh will be opposed by J. Wallace Carper and J. A. Dyer, of Vienna. W. H. Ellmore, of Floris, has filed against the incumbent Mark Turner, of Forestville, as supervisor from Dranesville district. D. W. Buckley, of Clifton, will have as his opponent Champ F. Hutchison, of Chantilly, for supervisor from Centreville district.

The following are seeking the office of justice of the peace in the various sections of the county: John B. Dowden, of Baileys Cross Roads; R. D. Wharton, of Centreville; Arthur D. Kirby, of Groveton; Carlin H. Cockrell, of Colvin Run; Howard Havener, of Clifton; Harry Shephard, of Accotink; Kelly Dove, jr., of Engleside; T. J. Wease, of Mount Vernon; John Bayliss, of Lee district; H. G. Cunningham, of Vienna, and George A. Williams, of Herndon. The following have filed for constable in the county: H. H. Havener, of Clifton; A. P. Mulholland, of Centreville, and Charles B. Runkon, of Falls Church district.

These candidates have paid the required fee to the Fairfax County treasurer at office closing time, 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, as required by the State law and their names will be included on the official ballot for the primary in August. It is expected that a number of the candidates will have Republican opposition in the general election in November, but as yet no Republican candidate has filed a declaration of candidacy as they have until 60 days prior to the general election. It is believed that the Republican candidates for county offices will not file their declaration until after the Democratic primary.

BOWLES ON STAND AND DENIES CHARGE

Banker Says He Was Never With Mrs. Mills Except Before Public.

B. Agee Bowles, vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank, was never "alone" with Mrs. Ray P. Mills, of Falls Church, Va., "except in public places," he told a jury yesterday in the Fairfax County Circuit Court, where he is being sued for $20,000 damages by Mrs. Mae B. May, neighbor of Mrs. Mills.

Mrs. May alleges she was partially paralyzed after Mr. Bowles made two visits to her home, accusing her, "in a loud manner, of spreading stories about himself and Mrs. Mills.

With the banker's testimony the defense rested its case, and after the prosecution introduced several witnesses in rebuttal, testimony was closed. Attorneys' arguments will be heard this morning. It is expected a verdict will be reached soon afterward.

Pair Reported Seen Alone.

A number of rebuttal witnesses declared they had on various occasions, seen Mr. Boles and Mrs. Mills alone in his car. Others were placed on the stand in an effort to counteract testimony given by character witnesses for Mrs. Mills at Wednesday's session. All charged that Mr. Bowles' alleged "friendliness" for Mrs. Mills had been much "talked of" in the neighborhood.

On the stand in his own defense, the banker said the purpose of his visits to the Mays' home was "to stop the Mays from spreading stories concerning me and Mrs. Mills reflecting on my reputation."

He said his relations with the Mays during both visits were friendly; that at no time did he raise his voice or display any other sign of anger. He said he was "positive" in his attitude, but on leaving them the first night they had shaken hands.

May's Testimony Contradicted.

He contradicted the May's testimony that they warned him concerning Mrs. May's physical condition or "that what I was saying would have any adverse affect upon her." He said that during both visits she seemed to be calm and took part in the discussion.

Bowles stated that it was at Mr. May's suggestion that he visited the May home on the second occasion and at his request he prepared an affidavit for Mrs. May to sign stating that she had not spread "stries." He told the court that during this visit the Mays told him they heard the stories from Helen Mills, 12-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mills.

Mr. Bowles said he was "dumbfounded to learn the Mays would question the child concerning her mother" and accused them of "pumping" her and "putting ideas in her head." He said he told them he could not believe them, because on his first visit they denied knowing anything about the alleged statements.

Cross-examined at length about his alleged relation with Mrs. Mills, Bowle stestified: "I can positively say that I was never alone in the Mills home with Mrs. Mills. I was never out of the Mills place with Mrs. Mills after dark, and when I was in the car with Mrs. Mills, her daughter or 15-year-old son, Ned, were along."

Judge Walter T. McCarthy indicated yesterday he would limit the time for today's attorneys' arguments.

PUBLIC HEARING SET ON NEW ZONING BILL

Alexandria City Council to Hear Friends and Foes on June 22.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The zoning ordinance prepared by the zoning and planning commission was presented to the city council yesterday, was placed on its first reading, and held for consideration at a public hearing to be held at 7:30 p. m. June 22, when all those interested will be afforded an opportunity to make such comments as they desire. A communication was received from the chamber of commerce in reference to this ordinance, and this was held for consideration at the hearing.

The chamber of commerce also sent a communication calling attention to the danger to persons crossing the tracks of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad from East Rosemont, at Oronoco street, and urged the construction of an underpass and a sidewalk from West street into East Rosemont. This was received, and in the discussion it developed that this matter was taken up several years ago when it was estimated that the underpass desired would cost $100,000, one-half of which would be paid by the railroad company. The city council, however, did not feel that the expense of $50,000 for its half could be borne. The city manager was instructed yesterday to write the railroad company suggesting that a fence be constructed on its property to prevent trespassing, and people given to understand that they would cross the tracks at their own risk.

Ambulance Driver Authorized.

The council authorized the employment of a man at $125 a month for the remainder of the year to drive the ambulance recently purchased by the fire department rescue squad, and which is stationed at No. 2 engine house, in Potomac.

A communication was received from Arthur W. James, director of the bureau of county and city organizations of Richmond, offering to make, without charge to the city, a survey of social organizations in Alexandria, and the offer was accepted.

Application for a building permit by John Jones, 314½ South Alfred street, and one by Henry Cinthrop, 314 South Alfred street, were granted. Application of C. A. Spiggle, for permission to erect a sign at 300 North Patrick street, was denied.

Estimates for street improvements were submitted, but the council did not take action thereon. The estimate for paving Wolfe street, between Alfred and Patrick streets, with bituminous macadam and surface treatment, was $2,200, and for concrete base on Montgomery street, between Washington and Columbus streets, was $2,080.

The city manager was instructed to proceed with the work of widening the road just south of the new bridge over Four Mile Run, on the lower or River Road, for a distance of 150 feet, 9 feet wide at the bridge and tapering to a point.

A communication was received from the Zoning and Planning Commission requesting compensation for their work, and was held for consideration.

Acts on Varied Applications.

Application of the Spic and Span Cleaners for a permit to erect a sign was denied; application of the Chin Moi Co. for a sign was granted; application of M. C. Moore, 421 North St. Asaph street, for a building permit, was granted, as was a similar application of the Chin Moi Co. and John W. Moore, 827 South Washington street; application of William Triplett for building permit at 314 North Lee street was granted; application of James Smith for building permit on Fairfax street, between Queen and Princess streets, was granted; communication from B. H. Apter, asking permission to place signs advertising his place of business while Washington street is closed to traffic, was granted; communication from Mrs. Margaret M. Stephenson, representing the Daughters of the American Revolution, asking that the city employ a visiting nurse, since the Antituberculosis Society had been compelled to discontinue the employment of a nurse owing to lack of funds, was referred to the Health Department for a recommendation; application by James T. Cook for permission to operate a store at 200 North Payne street, was granted; application of Dr. E. A. Gorman for permit to repair wooden cellar caps on South Royal street was received, and he will be notified that the wooden caps will have to be replaced with iron doors flush with the sidewalk.

The annual ordinance governing the sale and use of fireworks on July 4 was adopted, permitting sale on July 3 and 4, for use on July 4 only, and restricting an area in the vicinity of the Alexandria Hospital.

Action of the city school board in electing teachers in the two high schools of Alexandria again has been deferred, the delay being caused by the fact that a survey of the public schools is now in progress, and it was recommended by Dr. Sidney Hall, State superintendent of education, that action be withheld until the report or survey is received. A report of a survey made by Dr. W. S. Y. Critchley, of the high schools, and which was not accepted by Dr. Hall, dealt at considerable length with the necessary qualifications for a high school teacher, and it is undertsood some of the teachers did not possess the educational qualifications outlined by Dr. Critchley.

The opening of a summer school was decided, the date for enrollment to be announced later. The school board has advanced the rates of tuition to $5 for local pupils and $10 por out-of-town pupils, and extended the study period from one hour to two hours, as required by the new State law. The school board will lose money on the summer school, according to Superintendent Bowton, despite the increase in tuition fees of $1 for local pupils and $2 for out-of-town.

The dates for the commencement exercises of three schools were announced, that for George Mason High School being June 11; Alexandria High School, June 12, and Parker-Gray School for colored pupils, June 12. Diplomas will be delivered to the graduates by Urban S. Lambert, chairman of the school board.

The Rev. Dr. William Jackson Morton, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, delivered an address on Jefferson Davis on Wednesday evening, June 3, the birthday of the president of the Southern Confederacy, at the entertainment given that evening by the Daughters of theConfederacy to commemorate the occasion.

Mrs. Charles W. Howell, the president of the chaptre, was the hostess and special guests were a delegation from the chapter at Manassas, with their president, Mrs. C. L. Sinclair. R. Samuel Luckett, commander of the Sons of Veterans, was the master of ceremonies and announced the program.

The first number was a reading by Miss McLean. Miss Margaret F. Ogden sang a group of songs, accompanied by James Walters, who also rendered several piano selections. John W. THE AMERICAN BLACK CHAMBER

By HERBERT O. YARDLEY

Harry Hansen says in N. Y World-Telegram:—

Fiction may be thrilling, but fact, when lucidly told, can give you the creeps. "The American Black Chamber," written to tell the world how the American government decoded the secret communications of its enemies and friends, has suspense, all the excitement of the chase, climax and denouement. To me, Yardley is nothing short of a living Sherlock Holmes.

WOODLAND BEACH IS COOL RETREAT

Post Colony Will Afford Relief From Heat to Lot Purchasers.

Are these warm afternoons making you wish for the old swimming hole, a fishing rod and a pair of oars? Are they reminding you that somewhere under a tree with a good book it would be much more pleasant than walking on hot sidewalks?

If they are, there is a quick and sure way to remedy the situation. Take the family bankroll or the checkbook, go to The Washington Post office on E street, just around the corner from Fourteenth street, and when you have stepped inside on the main floor, your troubles will disappear.

A courteous and efficient staff of men is there ready to explain to you the advantages of Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development site on the South River in Maryland. After you have heard the details of Woodland Beach, the check that you write or the amount that you will pull off the bankroll will hardly dent the account or the roll.

All that you have to do is subscribe to The Post and leave $9 in cash. You are then the possessor of a lot at Woodland Beach and the remainder of the $93, which is the price of all lots, may be paid in monthly installments of $3.50. Nothing could be easier than that.

And when you have purchased a lot at Woodland Beach you have taken the big step toward solving all your summer perplexities. Woodland Beach, situated on two beautiful coves of the South River, offers boating, bathing and fishing. It is in a wooded area that will appeal to those who like to wander amid nature's finest surroundings. And it is only 32 miles from Washington.

Your summer home, just 32 miles away. That in itself is considerable of an attraction. Overnight stays at the cottage you build will be easy, for motoring to Woodland Beach is just a nice drive. You go out the Defense highway toward Annapolis, turning right at Camp Parole onto Maryland State highway No. 2 across the South River Bridge and then left onto Mayo road to the Beach.

Amusements for the children and a community clubhouse are among the other features offered by Woodland Beach. Many choice lots are still available although hundreds have bought and are well satisfied.

Wiessner's Death Is Laid to Poison

Eccentric Drank Almost Quart of Kerosene, Inquest Shows.

John Otis Wiessner, 70-year-old eccentric, died from the effects of kerosene poisoning, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury rendered last night. The jury said nothing of the causes which may have led the man to take the fatal drink in his home in Seat Pleasant.

Wiessner, whose habit of going barefoot and whose mathematical ability had made him a noted character in the neighborhood, was found dead in a chair Tuesday morning. Funeral services were held yesterday, with burial at Addison Chapel in Seat Pleasant.

Dr. James I. Boyd, of Forestville, who conducted an autopsy, said that nearly a quart of coal oil was found in the man's stomach. A demijohn partially full of the liquid was found near his body.

VETERAN, 84, NAMED CONFEDERATE HEAD

Gen. Desaussure, Memphis, New Commander; Meet Next in Richmond.

Montgomery, Ala., June 4 (A.P.).—Gen. C. A. Desaussure, of Memphis, an 84-year-old soldier who served throughout the war between the States as a private in the artillery, was named commander in chief of the United Confederate Veterans today. He was previously the quartermaster of the veterans.

Gen. Desaussure, who will hold his office until the 1932 reunion in Richmond, Va., was elected over another Tennessean, Gen. Rice A. Pierce, of Union City. The veterans, holding their reunion in the first capital of the Confederacy, unanimously voted to meet in Richmond, the Confederacy's second capital.

The presidential campaign of 1928 bobbd up as Gen. J. H. Howell, of Bristol, Va., in placing Gen. Pierce in nomination, said: "He voted the straight Democratic ticket in 1928." Attention of Gen. Howell was called to the by-laws prohibiting mention of politics in the business sessions and he quickly made amends.

Other Commanders Named.

Gen. Desaussure polled 690 votes and Gen. Pierce 159. The second man to congratulate Gen. Desaussure was his rival, who then moved that the election be made unanimous, which motion prevailed.

Gen. Sims Latta, of Columbia, Tenn., was elected commander of the Department of Tennessee; Gen. R. E. Chapman, of Dallas, Tex., was re-elected commander of the trans-Mississippi division, and Gen. Homer T. Atkinson was reelected commander of the Army of Northern Virginia.

Gen. Desaussure reappointed Gen. Harry Rene Lee, of Nashville, as adjutant general and chief of staff.

The reunion adjourned with only the grand ball tonight and the parade tomorrow remaining on the program before they break camp and evacuate "The Cradle of the Confederacy."

Many of the veterans wept today at memorial services honoring those who have died.

Veterans Parade Today.

The big event of the reunion, the grand parade tomorrow, will see remnants of courageous companies of Shiloh, Gettysburg, and other battlefields of the sixties form and pass in review before their new and past commanders in chief.

The veterans will pass in review in automobiles, as they no longer are able to stand a long march on hot streets.

Dr. George R. Tabor, of Oklahoma City, Okla., was elected commander in chief of the Sons of Confederate Veterans at that organization's convention here today.

The Alabama division of the organization was awarded the honor flag for the greatest increase in membership during the year.

Dr. Tabor, former national president of the American Antituberculosis Association, is a physician in Oklahoma City and served during the past three years as surgeon general of the S. C. V.

Richmond Man Reappointed.

Immediately following his election, Dr. Tabor gained the unanimous consent of the executive council to reappoint Walter L. Hopkins, of Richmond, Va., as adjutant in chief, in honor of his eleven years of service.

The organization followed the U. C. V. and went on record as opposing the present plans of Lieut. George E. Pickett 3d, to remove the body of his grandfather, Gen. George Pickett, of Gettysburg fame, from its resting place in a Richmond cemetery.

After refusal by the Hollywood Memorial Association of Richmond to allow the body of Gen. Pickett's wife to be buried beside her husband, the grandson asked that the Confederate general be buried in Arlington Cemetery, Washington, where his wife's body was finally placed.

The refusal was made, the Richmond delegation said, because the charter of the Pickett plot in the cemetery provided that only soldiers and sailors of the Confederate Army could be buried there, and that to allow the burial of Mrs. Pickett there would void the charter to the plot.

Comment on Decision Withheld by Pickett

Charlotte, N. C., June 4 (A.P.).—Lieut. George E. Pickett, U. S. A., grandson of the Confederate general, said today he had no comment to make upon the resolution adopted by the United Confederate Veterans in Montgomery opposing the removal of Gen. Pickett's remains from Hollywood Cemetery in Richmond to Arlington National Cemetery.

Mr. Pickett indicated, however, he would make a statement later.

The young officer announced plans to remove his grandfather's remains a few months ago shortly after the death of the general's widow. The Ladies Hollywood Memorial Association, controlling the Richmond cemetery, at first refused permission for her to be buried by the side of her warrior husband, and it was then that announcement was made that the geneal would be moved.

The Hollywood association changed its attitude, but Mr. Pickett said at the time he intended to go forward with his plans for transferring the remains.

Spanish Churches Decreed Treasures

Order Requires Approval of State Before Sale or Any Alteration.

Madrid, June 4 (A.P.).—The government issued a decree today declaring that many cathedrals and churches as well as a number of private castles, including properties of former King Alfonso, are "historic and artistic monuments belonging to the nation's artistic treasures."

The order places approximately 1,600 such buildings under control of the fine arts committee of the ministry of education.

It was explained that the decree does not mean nationalization or seizure of church property. Actual ownership continues in the hands of the church or private citizens, but these "national monuments can not be disposed of or altered without approval of the government's fine arts committee," the order says.

VETERANS OF GRAY AT HISTORIC CAPITOL

A group of Confederate veterans waited on the steps of the Alabama State Capitol at Montgomery for arrival of Gen. L. W. Stephens, commander, on the opening day of the annual reunion. Jefferson Davis stood beside the column at the right to take the oath as president of the Confederacy.

HEART ATTACK KILLS MORTIMER L. SCHIFF

Banker and Philanthropist Was President of Boy Scouts of America.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Mortimer L. Schiff, widely known philanthropist, partner in Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and member of the Stock Exchange, died today at his Oyster Bay home. A heart attack was given as the cause. He would have been 54 years old tomorrow.

His valet, Galpin, found Mr. Schiff, in pajamas, sitting in a chair in a room on the second floor of his home. Dr. Raymond E. Lease, Oyster Bay, said death was due to a coronary occlusion, a form of heart disease.

Justice of the Peace Augustus Morey declared the banker had been dead four hours when found at 8 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Schiff apparently had been in good health. He made his usual visit to his office yesterday and also attended a luncheon to Frederick M. Sackett, Ambassador to Germany. At 3 o'clock he left for Oyster Bay to join his daughter, Mrs. Richard B. W. Hall, in golf at the Piping Rock Club. After dinner with Mrs. Hall and his son, John Mortimer, who lives with him, he retired to his rooms.

Had Planned Trip Abroad.

Arrangements had been completed for Mr. Schiff to sail for Europe next month to join Mrs. Schiff in Paris. He was to spend his summer vacation there.

Mr. Schiff's philanthropies were many and varied, but he was particularly interested in the Boy Scout movement. On May 6 this year he was elected president of the Boy Scouts of America at the twenty-first national meeting of the national council in Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Schiff was born in New York, June 5, 1877, the only son of the late Jacob Henry and Theresa (Loeb) Schiff. He was educated in private schools and at Amherst College. He later studied banking in London and Hamburg. He joined his father's firm in 1900.

Wide and Varied Interests.

His business affiliations included directorships in the Chemical Bank & Trust Co. of New York and the Western Union Telegraph Co., among many other interests.

He was vice president of the New York State Chamber of Commerce, trustee of the New York Zoological Society and New York Botanical Garden, president of the Jewish Board of Guardians of New York and held the rank of major in the Military Intelligence Division, Officers' Reserve Corps.

He was an officer of the Legion of Honor of France, an officer of the Order of the Sacred Treasure in Japan and had received the silver wolf of the British Boy Scouts Association and the silver buffalo, a corresponding award from the Boy Scouts of America.

One of his outstanding wartime services was as a member of the committee of eleven to coordinate Army service agencies.

Funeral arrangements are awaiting word from Mrs. Schiff.

FLAG CONTEST ENDS TOMORROW EVENING

Post Opportunity to Design District Emblem Is Open to All.

After tomorrow the contest being conducted by The Washington Post to secure an appropriate design for a flag for the District of Columbia will be over and the opportunity afforded every one to be originator of such an emblem will be no more. There is still plenty of time to submit your suggestion.

Whether you can draw or not, send in your pen and ink sketch. Every suggestion will be considered on its symbolic quality rather than on carefulness of design.

When The Post first announced this undertaking each of the District Commissioners expressed personal indorsement of the move, and many civic organizations since that time have indicated their approval and desire to cooperate.

According to Corporation Counsel William W. Bride, any flag adopted by The Post committee of judges would not become official until it had formally been adopted by act of Congress, but the Commissioners could temporarily adopt it if they saw fit and the flag could be used by patriotic organizations. This temporary adoption would parallel the case of "The Star-Spangled Banner," which was sung for many years before it was made the official national anthem.

In addition to the fame which will go to the person designing the flag selected, The Post is offering a prize of $25. In just a few short days the winner will be announced. By next Monday all drawings will be in hands of the judges, who are Dr. B. C. MacNeil, department commander of the American Legion; Gen. Anton Stephan, commander of the District National Guard; William L. Thomas, commander of the District Department of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of public buildings and public parks.

One of the features of the show will be the annual community exhibit which will be participated in by Friendship Heights, Somerset, Kenwood, Durmmond, Chevy Chase Terrace and Chevy Chase Gardens.

TARIFF CRITICS BLUNDER.

Economists may talk about the effects of the new Canadian tariff upon American trade, but for the moment one other result of Canada's action is more enlightening. Canada has given the antiprotectionists in this country an opportunity to expose their own fatuity, and they have made the most of it. There is hardly a calamity-howling free trader in the United States who does not now lie hopelessly entangled in his own sophistry.

Ever since the Smoot-Hawley act was passed a year ago this class has been villifying the Republican party for exposing the people to widespread unemployment. The American tariff has been denounced as a curse to business and to the workingman. But now when Canada adopts a more comprehensive protective system, they automatically assume that it will be a great blessing to that country. In the United States the tariff causes unemployment; in Canada it creates jobs. Protection of American industry is a curse. Protection of Canadian industry is a blessing.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, states that even before the recent changes were made Canada's tariff was higher than that of the United States. The same is true of many other countries with which the United States does business. Even the so-called economists who are trying to destroy the American protective system recognize the benefits that other countries derive from their customs duties. Yet other domestic markets are small compared with that of the United States. According to these pseudoeconomists, tariffs are only destructive when they are set up around the greatest free trade area in the world.

This utterly fallacious reasoning is on a par with the free trade speech David Lloyd George made in London a few days ago. Picturing America as an economic wreck, he gloated over what he called the failure of the protective policy. In the next breath he was referring to America as the greatest area of absolute free trade in the world, because of the absence of commercial barriers between the States. In a sudden burst of wild oratory he declared America to be a glorious model for Britain to follow.

If the argument is sound that the Canadian tariff will protect Canadians and promote the prosperity of that country, then it merely illustrates the wisdom of the system which protects American industry and labor against cheap imports. If a tariff is good for Canada, it is a hundred times better for the United States, because of the vast American market and high standard of living.

The pseudoeconomists have overreached themselves. In trying to build up arguments to support their propaganda against Republican tariff policy they have cited Canada's action, which is identical with Republican policy.

MUSSOLINI'S IRON FIST.

Premier Mussolini is resorting to such drastic measures to stamp out all opposition to his regime that the outside world is beginning to wonder what he sees on the horizon. It was not enough for him to warn the Catholic Action Society against engaging in anti-Fascism activities. Nor was he merely satisfied with closing the clubs of this organization. The society itself has been ordered dissolved; a considerable number of its leaders have been arrested and may be exiled. Premier Mussolini now announces a general war against anti-Fascism in Italy in whatever form it may raise its head.

Arrangements are being made to convert the youth who composed the Catholic Action Society into loyal Black Shirts. A new drive is being made to strengthen Fascist groups all along the line. The Duce is determined not to permit whatever remains of anti-Fascism, and which thus far has been spared, to find refuge and protection under whatever banner, new or old."

Outside of Italy the most interesting question growing out of this controversy is, what lies behind Premier Mussolini's policy. Unless there is something under the surface which has not been exposed to the public, his attitude appears to be unnecessarily truculent. Has the depression brought fears of an uprising against the iron-fisted Duce? Is enthusiasm for the Black Shirt regime giving way to secret unrest? It does not seem reasonable that Mussolini would go out of his way to impose repressive measures upon the people or to antagonize the church unless he saw a dangerous threat against his power.

Opposition to Fascism is no more tolerable in Italy than is "counter revolution" against Communism in Soviet Russia. Mussolini seems determined to trample upon every foe with such rigor that others will not venture to thwart him. It will be interesting to see how Italy reacts to this policy. The newness has worn off from Fascism. Existing economic conditions have taught the people that even Mussolini can not make Italy depression-proof. Perhaps the Duce thinks it wise to cover up his fallibility with harsh measures intended to silence all expressions of discontent.

It remains to be seen whether the premier is sufficiently omnipotent to hold a nation in leash, or whether his drastic measures will provoke increasing opposition to the Fascist regime.

LINDBERGH'S NEXT FLIGHT.

Col. Lindbergh is not inclined to rest on his laurels. When good fortune carried him across the Atlantic from New York to Paris many of his friends advised him to give up flying over great waters. Of course, he had no intention of abandoning the air. He made good-will flights to Mexico, Central and South America. He has opened new air mail lines and has contributed in other ways to the progress of aviation.

The colonel's plan to fly with Mrs. Lindbergh to the Orient on a pleasure trip comes as a shock to many of his friends and admirers. Only four planes have successfully crossed the North Pacific. It is an area of treacherous storms. The distance between landing places is not great, but the severity of the weather and the barrenness of many of the islands along the route make it quite as hazardous as crossing the Atlantic. Only a deep and abiding love of adventure could induce Col. Lindbergh to take his wife on such a tour.

Careful preparations have been made by Col. Lindbergh for the elimination of needless risk. He does not propose a spectacular nonstop flight, but will take advantage of all means of insuring safety. In this respect he is setting an excellent example for all aviators who undertake hazardous flights. He is a bold and skillful pilot, but his practice of not exposing himself to needless danger is perhaps the chief element in his marvelous record in the air.

Good fortune, too, has played a large part in the success of Col. Lindbergh's flights. The country will sincerely wish that fortune may attend him and his wife on this venturesome pleasure trip.

This is not to be an official good-will tour. But Lindbergh can not travel to any part of the world without winning friends for himself and his country. In China and Japan he will be warmly welcomed. The entire world will watch the progress of the Lindbergh plane westward.

COOPERATION THAT PAYS.

The most efficient cooperative farms are not to be found in Russia, but right here in the United States. At Plainsboro, N. J., is located probably the most scientific and advanced cooperative farm in the world. The president, Henry W. Jeffers, is responsible for its development. With him have collaborated such men as Thomas A. Edison and Dr. Jacob G. Lipman, as well as the departments of agriculture of various States and that of the United States. Universities and foundations, too, have given able assistance to the experiment, and almost daily students and experts go to visit the Walker-Gordon Farms.

Originally the organization was handled in one great farm, but this was found to be unsatisfactory. The workmen took little interest in the experiment and would not put forth their best efforts. They refused to work when the weather was bad and made no effort to make up lost time when it was clear. At times it was almost impossible to harvest the crops. Mr. Jeffers, therefore, saw the necessity of creating a personal incentive for the men such as exists in the old-fashioned farmstead. He finally developed what he calls "centralized control and decentralized operation."

Men now rent or buy areas of 125 to 175 acres, which they farm along lines prescribed by the central organization. The office contracts to buy their crops at so much a pound, all they can produce. The finest seed, implements, fertilizer and other necessaries are furnished at minimum cost, and expert advice is given along all lines. Medical and veterinary services also are supplied, and a complete record is kept of each farm by the company.

The great dehydrator which has been built makes it possible to cut hay in all weather, as it is dried immediately and so can be stored without delay. This dehydrator is used also for alfalfa and other crops. It has been found that the value of crops preserved in this way is far greater than it was under the old system, as there is less vitamin loss. These crops are usually all used in the same organization for the dairy cows. Their effect is studied constantly in an effort to produce feed that will supply the highest grade of milk. At present every effort is being made to increase the vitamin B content in the milk.

The cows are leased or sold to individuals in herds of 50. Each man cares for his own cows, subject to central regulations. The central milking plants have remarkable mechanical devices in which a cow first receives a shower bath, then is dried by warm air, and, after inspection, the slowly revolving platform carries her to the milking machine. The milking is done automatically, the amount being weighed and then credited to the proper owner.

Not only is this great farming unit an interesting scientific experiment, but in the midst of poor farming, it is making a fine living for its members. Their new automobiles, the short periods in which they pay off their original indebtedness, and their improved standards of living, all testify to the value of the system. Many of the advantageous features of this centralized, cooperative management plan would lend themselves to other forms of agricultural production.

NO SILVER PARLEY.

Informal discussion by representatives of the United States with other nations on the subject of holding an international parley with a view to fixing the price of silver has resulted in the announcement by President Hoover that countries whose participation is vitally necessary "do not consider this a proper time to call an international conference on silver and would oppose holding such a conference now."

Such a categorical statement would be severe enough blow to the hopes of American silver advocates who have entertained the futile hope that some artificial resuscitation might restore commodity silver to its pristine monetary glory. Failure to enlist help from any European country is bad enough, but when China, over whose plight crocodile tears have been shed for many moons, adds her request to let silver alone it is, indeed, a rebuff.

China uses silver exclusively, and has been pictured as suffering acutely because of the low price of the white metal, with the resulting higher price in Chinese currency that must be paid for imported goods. But China feels that its interests would be adversely affected by any proposal directed at a higher price for silver. The extremely low price of silver in recent months has increased Chinese exports and improved its trade balance.

With gold received in the United States and other markets for Chinese exports, silver can be purchased today most advantageously. Silver is silver in China, and the government's uses for it, for payment of the army and other governmental expenses, are much more important than exchange rates for the comparatively small percentage of the population that consumes imported goods.

CALVIN COOLIDGE SAYS:

Northampton, Mass., June 4.—The pulpit and the commencement platform frequently assert that our governmental and economic system is on trial. The inference is that it has failed.

When told that Christianity had failed Beecher said that it had never been tried. The same reply is applicable to criticism of our system. It has not been tried.

We live under a system of individual freedom and self-government where each individual is entitled to the rewards of his own foresight and industry and is charged with his own support. The only way to change this system is to restrict the freedom of the individual, let some one else govern him, give the rewards of his industry to others and make him support others. That system is slavery.

For 2,000 years the Ten Commandments and the Sermon on the Mount have been preached. Because of ignorance and selfishness their teaching has not been fully accepted and adopted.

Our country has provided a system of government and economics. The same ignorance and selfishness have prevented its complete success. Our religious and social systems have not failed. They are sound. The failure lies in human imperfection. We need to grow in social and religious grace.

RUSSIA THE ENEMY

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial concerning the dumping of Russian goods in this country is worthy of careful consideration. If Russia had set up an orderly government in which human rights were safeguarded she would have had a sympathetic friend and helper in the United States. Having set up a government conceived in violence and deceit, under which the kulaks or well-to-do peasants have been robbed and murdered and the great mass of the people have been reduced to what amounts to involuntary servitude, we should weigh well what our attitude should be toward the admission of Russian goods to this country.

It is clear that with forced labor Russia will ultimately be able to produce goods very cheaply. If we rely upon the tariff alone to protect American labor we must make the tariff so high as to completely destroy the American market for the countries friendly to us, such as England and Canada. There seems to be no good reason why we should destroy our friends merely to maintain the shell of trade relations with a nation which makes no secret of the fact that as soon as she is commercially on her feet she will push forward with her plans to stir up trouble in America and to destroy our form of government if possible. We will be saps if we furnish her with the means to attempt our destruction.

I say "attempt," because Russia will find that there are three reasons why she will be impotent to carry out her plans as far as this country is concerned. The first is that she will find that it takes two elements to make international commerce successful. One element is the ability to produce cheaply by mass production and the other is a market for the cheap material produced. The first she may achieve; the latter she will find herself lacking, because the nations will combine to leave her in splendid isolation "all dressed and no place to go" if she persists in her attempts to incite treason and revolution about the earth. The second reason is that in the United States most people have something to lose by the breakdown of government. The average American has become patient and long-suffering, but if anybody tries to take his tin lizzie away from him there will be hell to pay.

The third reason is that the very large majority of our people have a great love for this America, even though they deplore the injustices which arise from dishonest or ignorant leadership, and they are getting very, very tired of having poor business made worse by the antics of a lot of wild foreigners, who are trying to make the tail wag the dog. There seems to be no good reason for being so careful to throw the protection of the law about people who are so busily engaged in trying to tear it down. These gentry will find that two can play at the game of getting rough.

Our Government has done well to refuse to recognize the Soviet government. It should go further and make it clear that continued treasonable propaganda against American institutions will be considered sufficient cause for the establishment of a blanket embargo on all Russian goods made by forced labor, which means all Russian goods.

PROGRESS.

The best is but a step unto the better.
The goal attained discovers one unwon,
Each year sees man break down some age-long fetter
And do what wise men thought could not be done.

A record's made! Tomorrow 'twill be broken.
Who steps in front a while may lead the way,
But one behind, whose fame is still unspoken,
Will rise to greater glory in his day.

Not even near is man's supreme endeavor.
What can be done but faintly has been guessed;
Progress will whisper to mankind forever:
"There is a way to better what is best."

And men will seek it and some day will find it
To give the world a joy it's waited long;
The radio had dark centuries behind it,
But now it fills the humblest home with song.

Not yet at fastest speed has mortal ridden.
Not yet has sculpture shaped its fairest stone.
From us today are mighty secrets hidden
Which brave men shall discover and make known.

If You Can Hold Your Own in Fast Company, You Can Lead the Field in Slow.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MOST commentators who compare farmers and town men are trying to prove a point instead of revealing the truth.

An honest critic may picture a lazy and illiterate yokel, stupid and unclean, whose degrading poverty is the just reward of ignorance; but he should add that the same man or another like him would fare as ill in town.

Intelligence has its fair reward, on the farm as in the city. The man who would succeed in one place can succeed in the other. And though the farmer cannot hope for great wealth, he has assurance of the things that wealth will buy—necessities, comforts, independence and security.

On one farm of modest size in the State of New York there lives a man who is the fourth of his name and breed to husband the same acres.

Like the three who preceded him, he is a college graduate and a gentleman.

He doesn't plant the usual "cash crops" that glut the market and keep both farm and farmer poor. He knows there is more profit in finished products than in raw materials.

He grows legumes that draw nitrogen from the air to enrich his soil. He feeds his crops to cows; milks the cows by machinery; sells the cream at a profit, and keeps the milk to feed pigs and chickens.

He works fewer hours than men in factories and men at desks.

The work he does is no more arduous than the exercise a desk man takes in order to keep fit.

He has a comfortable home, with all the conveniences of a city apartment, and he doesn't worry about the rent.

He has a car, a radio, books, magazines, a saddle horse.

He is respected by his self-respecting neighbors; he is not annoyed by police regulations; he is free and independent; he has complete assurance that he never will be homeless or jobless or dependent in his old age.

He can visit the city and enjoy its advantages when he desires.

What more has life to offer that an ordinary man desires?

Thousands of jobless men now walking the streets might have abundance and security in the country.

We hear too much about "stupid yokels" and not enough about country gentlemen who possess the earth.

No More Taxes?

Boston Transcript.

In commenting Monday upon Secretary Mellon's recent radio address concerning taxation, we ventured to remark that his recommendations would not dovetail any too well with the plans of the politicians. The accuracy of this remark was very quickly demonstrated. They are immediately up in arms against any plan that will broaden the basis of taxation, as the Secretary suggested, and gather in taxes, even in small amounts, from several million more persons than are paying them now. Perhaps we should rank Senator Borah as a statesman rather than a politician, nevertheless his gorge rises against any attempt to tax more voters. Lowering of the exemptions and taxation of smaller incomes would reduce the purchasing power of the people, the Idaho senator believes. Senator Couzens, of Michigan, would prefer to be classed as a business man, we imagine, but we can hardly find him agreeing with any plan suggested by the Secretary of the Treasury. Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, is regarded as an authority on taxation, but he is a Democrat, and he utters a tearful lament that the Treasury "was entirely unable to grasp the depth of the business collapse," although we find in his statement no acknowledgment that the last Congress appropriated a great many more hundreds of millions of dollars than Secretary Mellon advised as wise or necessary.

If the Democratic party is divided on the prohibition issue, the Republican party will be divided between Progressives and Conservatives. It is by no means certain that Mr. Hoover will be renominated. Gov. He intends to get the delegation from Pennsylvania and it looks as if he is going to get it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Circles, Washington Monument Grounds, Mall and Ellipse Should Be Given Over for Parking Autos, and Trees Should Come Down.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The plan to cut through Thomas and Logan circles to accommodate automobile traffic is good sense.

The grounds around Washington Monument are available for automobile parking, which will be necessary when the public buildings are concentrated near the Mall. The Mall itself can be used for parking, and I understand it is to be used for that purpose. All trees in the way must come down. Necessity comes first. I think part of the Ellipse could be given over to hard-pressed motorists, leaving plenty of room for baseball players and loafers.

There are too many trees in Washington. They obscure the red and green traffic lights and make for accidents. A wholesale tree-cutting campaign would make Washington look spruce and clean.

CHEVROFORD.

Democrats Attack Tariff Law, and Yet Democrats Are Demanding Higher Protective Duties.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Democratic party's advance agents, Michelson, Shouse and Pat Harrison, are busy posting carmine-yellow, bordered in black, three-ring sheets on the barn and fences along the highways of the country.

One of these sheets carries the title, "High Tariff is the cause of the fix we're in."

Way, way back, and yet it has not been so long ago, John Bright, English statesman, delivered a speech at a dinner in Rochdale, in which he said among other things: "There is another cause which is sometimes in England assigned for this great misfortune, which is, the protective theories in operation in the Union (United States), and the maintenance of a high tariff. It happens with regard to that, unfortunately, that no American, certainly no one I ever met with, attributed the disasters of the Union to that cause. It is an argument made use of by ignorant Englishmen, but never by informed Americans. I have already shown you that the South, during almost the whole existence of the Union, has been dominant at Washington; and during that period the tariff has existed, and there has been no general dissatisfaction with it. Louisiana has always voted along with Pennsylvania."

The Democratic advance agents cannot very well answer that that was in the long ago, and that the Democratic party does not now believe in high tariff. Should they do so, the Congressional Record may be produced to show the recorded votes of the many Southern members of Congress in favor of high tariff in recent Congresses, even higher on things produced in their section of the country, than any Republican tariff bill has ever asked for.

Not only Southern Democratic members, but Western and New England Democratic members, demand high protective duties. Only a few days ago Representative Connery, of Massachusetts, asked for a higher tariff on boots and shoes, to save the New England industry. Democratic senators from Arizona are now demanding a duty on copper.

GROVER W. AYERS.

Aliens Who Come Here for Liberty Should Be Willing to Defend It.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: People from other lands come to the United States because opportunity is in the very air, because here they can better their condition. That such opportunities exist is because seemingly unsurmountable obstacles were overcome and the price was paid by those who, in earlier generations, provided that individual initiative should have a free hand. The vicissitudes through which the Nation has passed from the days of the Puritans until now have been guarded by the valor of men who loved the principles of freedom.

The great Webster said, "God gives liberty only to those who are willing to defend it," and in that spirit the America of today is what she is among the nations of the earth. The recent decision of the Supreme Court reaffirms the principles laid down by the fathers, thank God! So that hereafter no one need be in doubt that to be an American citizen is to be willing to defend the flag at any time and in any possible emergency. Why not? If anything is so desirable that we wish to possess it, what makes it so mean as to be unworthy of defense?

It is not unlikely that the professor and the nurse would be desirable citizens in other respects, but hyphenated Americans are far too numerous here now, and a wise and persistent deportation is beginning to relieve the pressure.

Until we have a citizenship of honest-to-goodness Americans, through and through, we can scarcely feel that we can pass on to our children the precious heritage that has been passed to us. Meantime, this latest interpretation of the Constitution clears the air and, let us hope, for all time to come.

Let us stop this constant "tap—tap—tap" on Sunday. No good comes from working on Sunday. There is some bolshevistic talk about a five-day week. But let us first be sure that we have a six-day week before we talk about a five-day week.

FORMER ARAB KING SUCCUMBS IN EXILE

Hussein Was Leader of Revolt Making Lawrence World Figure.

Jerusalem, June 4 (A.P.).—Former King Hussein of the Hedjaz, one of the most romantic figures in the Arab revolt against Turkey during the World War, died at dawn today at Amman after a long illness at the age of 75.

It was in the Arab revolt which Hussein started that the famous "Lawrence of Arabia" played so prominent a part, working chiefly with Hussein's son Feisal, now King of Irak. Hussein was the central figure in the pan-Arab movement which sought to include Palestine under a federation of Arab states under his rule.

The former king, who lost his own throne in the Hedjaz to the chieftan Ibn Saud in 1924, will be buried in Jerusalem. It is likely that interment will be in the vicinity of the Mosque of Omar near where Mohammed Ali, Indian Moslem leader, is buried.

From 1916 to 1924 he was King of the Hedjaz until he was compelled to abdicate by Ibn Saud, Emir of Nejd and King of the Wahabis, who later absorbed Hedjaz. Hussein was then exiled to Cyprus where he lived until late last year when he became seriously ill and was brought to Amman.

In 1924, after the Turkish Republic abolished the caliphate, King Hussein was proclaimed caliph by the Moslem of Hedjaz, Irak, Transjordania and Palestine. For a brief time he was the outstanding figure of the Arab world.

When he was deposed as King of Hedjaz, Hussein was still discussing with the British government the terms of an Anglo-Hedjaz treaty which he refused to sign unless it included the recognition of Palestine as one of the Arab countries.

Some months ago Hussein was reported to be engaged in writing a history of the Arab revolt against Turkey during the World War. At the time of the 1929 disturbances in Palestine, Hussein made a statement in which he bewailed the misfortunes in Palestine and recalled that "but for my intervention on behalf of Palestine I would not be a miserable exile now."

Toscanini's Papers Returned by Italy

Restraint Off, Conductor Is Expected to Go to Beyreuth.

Milan, Italy, June 4 (A.P.).—Arturo Toscanini's passport, which was suspended after the conductor refused to play the royal march and Fascist anthem at Bologna recently, was returned to him this morning and now he is free to leave Italy. It was said yesterday that the maestro would go to Bayreuth to conduct the Wagnerian festival.

It was disclosed today that when the conductor's passport was recalled those of all the members of his family also were withdrawn and these have not yet been returned, although the police assured Toscanini's son that they would be restored within a few days.

It is expected that Toscanini will start for Beyreuth within a week or ten days and although his plans thereafter are not known it is believed he will go to the United States.

Gold Star Mother Finds Absent Son

Offspring Who Fought for Germany Greets Parent on Pilgrimage.

Cherbourg, France, June 4 (A.P.).—When a delegation of 220 American Gold Star Mothers stepped off the President Roosevelt here today, a former German soldier who fought against the American Army at the Argonne was on the pier to meet Mrs. Emile Kennedy, of Germantown, Pa. He is her son. His brother, who served with the American forces, lost his life at sea and was buried at sea.

Mrs. Kennedy had not seen the son who met her today for 32 years and their reunion brought tears to the eyes of more than one member of the visiting delegation.

All the mothers in the new party were in good health. They left for Paris immediately.

Another delegation of 125 returning to the United States on the President Harding may sail without Mrs. Gertrude Olsen, of Hayti, S. Dak. She is recovering after three blood transfusions at the American Hospital.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES OF CAPITAL

Capital Folk Plan Summer At Rehoboth

Beach in Delaware Is Popular With Young Married Couples.

BECAUSE it is one of the most accessible ocean resorts near Washington, Rehoboth Beach, Del., with all its rustic charm, has found favor again this season with a group of "young marrieds" in the Capital, many of whom were cottagers there last season.

Rehoboth, for many seasons has been popular, too, with Wilmington people, although only in the past few years was it discovered by Washingtonians, who have flocked to the quiet Delaware retreat.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Snow, jr., will be established there again this season, as will Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Orme Exnicios, both couples having leased cottages. Mr. and Mrs. Henri de Sibour and Dr. and Mrs. Robert E. Moran, who were frequent visitors at Rehoboth last summer, have taken cottages there, as have Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Reeves.

Others planning to spend their vacations there are Mr. and Mrs. James Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Goodrich. The Stuarts have resided in Washington for almost two years, during Mr. Stewart's term of service in the State Department, where he is head of the foreign service school. He came here from Monterey, Mexico, where he was attached to the consulate. Mrs. Stewart will leave their home in Georgetown in a week to become established at Rehoboth for the season, and Mr. Stewart will join her there on week-ends throughout the season. The Goodriches already have taken possession of their cottage. Mr. Goodrich is a member of the board of tax appeals.

Mr. and Mrs. Snow will motor down in two weeks and Mr. and Mrs. Exnicios will also become established there shortly.

Of the Wilmington colony Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Weir, among a number of others, will visit Rehoboth. They plan to spend week-ends throughout the summer at the spacious cottage they are building on the waterfront. Although it is not yet completed, it will probably be ready for occupancy early next month.

Representative and Mrs. C. William Ramseyer, their daughters, Miss Jane Ramseyer and Barbara Ramseyer, and the former's guests from Bloomfield, Iowa, Miss Jane Young and Miss Florence McNab, attended the commencement exercises at the Naval Academy in Annapolis yesterday.

On Saturday Miss Dorothy Letts, daughter of Judge and Mrs. F. Dickinson Letts, will entertain for Miss Ramseyer and her guests.

MRS. KARL JUNG, who before her marriage yesterday at the Chapel of the United States Naval Academy was Miss Frances Vaughan, daughter of Mrs. Robin W. Vaughan. Ensign Jung was graduated yesterday from the Naval Academy.

Maj. McQuillin En Route for Fort Dupont

Former White House Aid Will See Maneuvers; Back in Month.

Maj. Raymond McQuillin left yesterday to attend the maneuvers at Fort duPont. He will be absent until the end of the month, when he will return to Washington for a short time. Later in July he will go to his home in South Dakota for a vacation and will sail on August 19 for California via the Panama Canal, and will be stationed at the Presidio in San Francisco.

Maj. McQuillin has been stationed in Washington for several years, and has been detailed as aid at the White House. Last year he was appointed to the Army War College to

Summer Days Urge Scientists To Go Afield

Mexico and Alaska to Be Asked to Yield Secrets.

The path of adventure for several Washingtonians this summer leads out beyond the horizon, into the Rockies or the plateaus of Mexico and into interior Alaska. Lieut. Col. E. Alexander Powell, inveterate traveler, will leave Journey's End in Chevy Chase about the end of June for Colorado, where he will lead the angler's life for a part of his six weeks' stay, and also ramble high into the Great Divide for big game shooting. With the colonel will be a group of "big game fans" who have attained distinction in science, literature, &c., the group "all set" for a summer's outing.

Mexico will beckon Dr. W. J. Foshag, of the mineralogy department of the National Museum, who will leave on June 16 for Mexico City, making the trip by train. There he will be joined by a member of the Geological Institute of Mexico, and the two men will conduct a research along general lines of mineralogy and geology for four or five months. Of the same department, Mr. E. P. Henderson will leave in about ten days for Utah, Colorado and Montana, making the trip by motor.

Dr. Charles W. Gilmore and Mr. N. H. Boss, of the National Museum, left Monday for the West, the former leading an expedition to southwest Montana, where he will seek fossil remains of the ancestors of the camel and the rhinocerous. Mr. Boss will head a party in the Snake River Valley of Idaho, on the old Oregon Trail.

Dr. Hrdlicka, with two assistants from the department of anthropology, set out two weeks ago for Alaska, where they will conduct research through the summer.

The former United States Minister to Panama, Mr. William Jennings Price, has returned to Washington after being the guest of Mrs. J. Wilmer Biddle at the house party she gave at her country estate, Kenwood Manor, in Virginia.

Grand Duchess Marie Is Here From New York

Visit in Capital Made With Meloneys; Plans Summer Abroad.

Making a sketchy trip into town yesterday the Grand Duchess Marie, of Russia, and Mrs. William Brown Meloney, with the latter's son, Mr. William Brown Meloney, will be here part of today at their suite at the Carlton. They are doing a little sightseeing, transacting a little business and visiting with a few friends before motorng back to New York.

The grand duchess will spend the summer abroad, planning to sail on the Paris July 1, and will be in Paris during most of her stay in Europe.

Mrs. Meloney only recently arrived in New York from the Continent where she spent six weeks in France and Brussels. It is her plan to divide her time during the summer months between her country house in Dutchess County, N. Y., and the metropolis, although she will take occasional flying visits to Washington.

Mrs. Larsen, wife of Maj. Henry L. Larsen, who is living at Wardman Park Hotel, will entertain at luncheon there today. There will be about sixteen guests, who afterward will play bridge in the Florentine room of the hotel.

Miss Martha McClure, Republican national committeewoman of Iowa, will arrive in Washington Tuesday to be the guest of her sister, Mrs. William Fitch Kelley, at her country home, Knole, on the Rockville pike.

Mrs. McClure is coming here to attend the meetings of the junior Republican organization.

THE above hand shows North and South with practically all the high cards of three suits and the other side taking the thirteen tricks. It was held in the Eastern Pair Contract championship in New York City in March, and certainly should be classed as a curio.

The bidding at one table was especially interesting; it follows: South, pass, West one Spade, North double (of course informatory), East four Spades, South five Clubs (justified by North's double), West five Spades, North six Clubs (an extremely doubtful declaration; with the North hand it readily might be that Diamonds would be a better suit for the two hands than Clubs), East six Spades (also extremely doubtful; most players with this holding would have doubled six Clubs, but East sensed a freak, and also that if he doubled six Clubs North would shift the suit), South pass, West pass, North double (of course business), East redoubled (his redouble being based upon the belief that West had no Clubs, North and South having shown all the Clubs that East did not hold). East had no Hearts and figured that all the trumps were divided between the West and East hands, so that apparently the only trick that could be lost would be East's one Diamond.

The play was as follows: North led the King of Hearts which East trumped. East then led a trump (drawing the one adverse trump), West winning it and leading the Queen of Hearts. It could do no good to hold up the Ace. When North played it, East ruffed and led a Club which West ruffed. West then led his three good Hearts, East discarding a Diamond and two Clubs. After that West and East ruffed the hand out, taking all the tricks.

YOUR NAME — WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFERRARI, Ph. D.

THE family name "Farrand" is found with an unusually large number of variations. Some of the commonest are "Farran," "Farrance," "Farrant," "Farren" and "Ferrand." In many cases these names may be traced back to the old French "ferrant," meaning "iron-gray," and were originally applied as nicknames to persons whose hair was of that color. In many other cases these names represent shortened forms of the French "marechal ferrant," meaning "the blacksmith," and indicate the occupation of the persons who were first so called. Finally, "Farrand" sometimes is an abbreviated form of "Ferdinand." The personal name "Ferdinand" is ultimately of Teutonic origin. According to most authorities, its meaning is "adventuring life." Forms of this name in some foreign languages are: French, "Ferdinand," "Ferrand" and "Ferry;" Spanish, "Fernando," "Hernando" and "Hernan;" Italian, "Ferdinando," "Fernando" and "Ferrante," and German, "Ferdinand" and "Nandl." From the Spanish forms have been derived the common family names "Fernandez" and "Hernandez," which mean "the son of adventuring life." The earliest recorded instances of "Ferrand" appear to be those in the Hundred Rolls (1273). In that important document are listed the names of Henry Ferant, Walter Ferrant and Benedict Ferasunt.

The family names "Schraft," "Schrafft" and "Schroff" are of German origin. Their source is the middle high German "Schrave" (also spelled "Schroffe") which means "the rough rock" and "the sharp rock." These names indicate original places of residence, which were identified by being near such rocks. The above names have sometimes been confused with "Schroepf" and "Schropf," which, however, have wholly different sources and meanings.

A la MODE Interprets the MODE

Smart dinner gown of chiffon, with interesting cut and block shadow lace. (Courtesy of Lucille, Paris.)

New York, June 4.

REMEMBER my telling you not so very long ago that almost without exception the crowns of brimmed hats had to be very shallow in order to be smart? Well, it just goes to show how rash I was to make that assertion, because while it was perfectly true at the time, I should have known that as soon as one type of thing is chic and thus popular, a contrary tendency will immediately spring up to satisfy the leaders of fashion who give up wearing a thing as soon as it becomes the smart thing and is worn by many women.

Which brings me back to shallow crowns! Well, first Patou with his square-crowned as well as round-crowned sailors, started the opposition to them. (And sailor, by the way, means almost any moderate brimmed hat that has its brim flatter than the downward dropping brim of the old-time cloche.) And now, draped and folded crowns show themselves on smart heads—not often but still enough to show that it's an important trend. I saw one the other day on one of these chic heads. It was of red picot straw with a flat (or sailor) brim; the crown was folded down on one side where it was finished by row of tiny, brightly colored quills, seemingly for the purpose of holding the brim in place.

And then Agnes has created a brand-new and very whimsical type of crown which she uses on all sorts of turbans and toques. It's hard to describe and the nearest I can get to it is to say that it looks like a rounded protruberance on the top of the hat formed by the material of the crown—something as if you were wearing a hard tight knot of hair on the top of your head which pushed the hat into that form. But when worn by girls with obviously bobbed hair it gives the face a kind of elfin look, which Mme. Agnes accentuates by insisting that the hair if the bob be a wind-blown one, be worn with the ends over the cheeks—which may spell the doom of the sleekly drawn-back hair and the completely exposed face beneath one's bonnet.

Some like sun-tans occasionally and some don't. Some like very brief shorts and some like very full skirts—on beach costumes, of course. Well, it sounds like kind of an expensive proposition to suit every one, now doesn't it? But it isn't really, you know, for if you'll send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, you'll see that in the beach ensemble I have designed for you I have taken all these things into consideration. The shorts, for instance, can be changed for a skirt if you wish, or a few buttons properly applied make sun-tan a thing to be obtained if you wish, or kept at bay if you don't—and lots more interesting beach tricks that I haven't any space to tell you about!

• • • •

Lovely ladies of the summer season 1931 seem linked together by one common characteristic! They can not consider their wardrobe complete unless it has in it a chiffon frock, whose interesting and elaborate details make it the ideal costume for dining or informal dancing. So chiffon is the fabric chosen by Lucille for the lovely gown sketched for you today, with its black shadow lace trimming, its incrustations, especially designed to be flattering, and all figured out to be softly graceful without being the least bit too fussy.

• • • •

And doesn't this frock prove to a mature woman that chiffon is admirably fitted to her needs as well as to the whims of slim young girls? You can choose nothing more flattering than chiffon in some soft color, or in black for a summer dinner.

Do remember to look for Dare's weekly fashion letter in The Sunday Washington Post.

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

POSIES FOR POTPOURRI.

JUNE is the time to begin gathering posies to refill your rose jars and to fill the fascinating bags and boxes which you may find so useful at Christmas time.

Potpourri is so expensive to buy and so easy to make that it seems a pity that more people do not save their blossoms and thus preserve the sweetness of the sumer months so as to add to the fragrance of the ones to come.

The first step is to secure some large pieces of white blotting paper, spread it in a sunny place. On this paper lay your leaves and blossoms.

The following is an old-fashioned recipe which, like the fortunes which are told in the daisy fields, "is sure to come true." In other words, it is reliable and sure to satisfy.

Two quarts of rose petals. This does not mean petals that have fallen to the ground. They have lost their sweetness. Nor does it mean the petals unfolded from a bud. They are immature and lacking in sweetness. It means two quarts of petals shaken from full-blown roses.

Keep each variety of flower separate during the process of drying.

Every recipe you will find calls for salt. Why, I do not know, because salt in nine cases out of ten will cause the petals to mildew. Therefore do not be persuaded to use even a remote suggestion of it. To the rose petals add two cupfulls of sweet pea blossoms (do not separate these petals), two cupfuls of old-fashioned, spicy pinks, three cupfuls of pine needles and some sprigs of spruce, one-half cupful of marigolds, two cupfuls of the lovely blossoms of the heliotrope so popular in those gardens of the past and rarely seen today, as much mignonette as you can spare (you can not add too much), and at least four cupfuls of trumpets of the honeysuckle (they retain so much of their sweetness when dried); then two cupfuls of chrysanthemum petals add zest to the combination; two cupfuls of lemon trifolium leaves, one cupful of thyme and sage leaves and one cupful of shrubs.

As they dry place them in separate containers with lids. You will probably think, when you place them in these containers, that your efforts have been in vain—that you have petals, but no odor. But when you lift the lids in late September and mix the potpourri, you will realize that you are mistaken. For then the odor will be distinct. When the petals are mixed use one pound of lavender flowers. These you will purchase at a drug store; also one-half pound of powdered orris root and one-quarter ounce of musk. This latter is a liquid added to help blend the odors.

Keep the mass in a covered container for two weeks after the final mixture. Then it will be ready to be distributed into your rose jars. This is a generous recipe. You can divide it, making only a quarter of the amount if you wish.

Wives of Tomorrow

—FRANCES M'DONALD—

Another Fine Example

DEAR Frances McDonald: Three years ago I married a man with many of the solid virtues that make for happy married life. As he was not making enough to keep us in the style we desired, I kept my position, against the advice of my friends, who said men get used to having their wives work and it makes trouble.

Recently my father has been out of work and unable to get a position because of his age, and having saved nothing from his previous salaries the family has been reduced from very comfortable circumstances to a really desperate situation. My brave mother came to the rescue, getting herself a teaching position and scraping and contriving to hold the wolf from the door by sheer grit. Occasionally an emergency arises in which I want to help her over a particularly bad spot, and then my husband makes a row over my giving her money. He claims that I am as improvident as my father and will have nothing saved for my old age if I insist on giving our surplus away, throwing money, as he says, into a bottomless pit where it does no good. He also reminds me that I want to have children, which we can't have unless we save a certain sum; that he is over 40 years old and we must save faster than younger married couples that are just starting out.

All of this has a great deal of truth in it and yet what can I do? It breaks my heart to let my family suffer when I have surplus money which I am earning myself. I keep hoping that a way may be found out of their difficulties soon, and meanwhile I want to alleviate their burden. But my husband says he is tired of saving in order that I may give away, and I must choose between him and my family. I have figured that the amount I have given my mother since I was married comes to an average of $5 for every $100 that I make.

When I tell my husband that it seems I should be able to make whatever disposition I want of my own money, he brings up the question of the equality of the sexes—says "Don't you say you believe in equal rights? Am I supposed to support us on my salary and save too, while you throw away your money?

Of course if he sees it that way, there seems to be little I can do. Except when he gets unreasonable in matters relating to my family he is really a very good husband and I am terribly fond of him. I don't want to let my family's misfortune wreck my home and happiness—none of this would have ever come up if my family had not had those unexpected reverses. I don't know whether I had better relinquish my "rights" for the sake of harmony, or whether that would just be taking the way of least resistance. One thing is certain: my husband is reaching the breaking point with each new battle, which causes me great suffering. Please advise me. Must I see my mother troubled and in want while I put $100 a month in the bank.

DAUGHTER.

Except when he sees his meal ticket in jeopardy this magnificent soul is a perfect husband.

My dear girl, let this impertinent mortal understand without any ands, ifs or buts, that your earnings are yours, that your mother is yours, and that one man in about four million would have the audacity to dictate to a self-supporting wife what she should do with what she earns. If he married you as an insurance against want in his old age, of course your money is a very important consideration in his life. Otherwise it is your business—100 per cent.

Do not think of giving in. When your dear mother is beyond earthly need and safe at last from all turmoil your greatest consolation will be the recollection of these days when you saved her from waking each morning to dread of another day. If you doubt the wisdom of my answer to you just answer yourself by asking yourself one question. If your position were reversed and your mother was putting money in bank and you were wearing your heart out for want of a few dollars—would she fail you? Let the answer to that be the answer to your problem.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF June 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:15 to 9:30 a. m., from noon to 2:45 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9:10 p. m. The danger hours are from 9:45 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. and from 4 p. m. to 6:10 p. m.

According to the astrological indications, June 5 is an unlucky day generally, although it may be one of importance. Many will find themselves in a critical condition, and decisions made may cause many radical changes. Some new friendships, productive of reciprocal benefit, will be formed.

Children born on this June 5 will be self-reliant, truthful, constant and patient. They will be very tidy and methodical, punctual and rather fastidious. They will quickly form friendships and give and find loyalty. They will have domestic tastes, be very affectionate and sincere and have lovable dispositions.

Born on June 5, you do not thrive on intellectuality. You live a great deal in your senses and sensations. You are very affectionate, too much so. You always allow your heart to dictate and disregard the counsel of the head. You permit yourself to be swayed by the feelings of the moment and often forget the part of discretion. You are temperamental and enthusiastic now, but the next moment depressed and gloomy.

Your imagination is extremely vivid, and you allow yourself to be carried away by thoughts of "realms of fairy, where you behold perhaps what can never be." Work except as a means of securing the wherewithal to eat, does not appeal to you. Dreaming—more often than not, pipe-dreaming—is more in your line. You picture yourself the hero of many a struggle, the saviour of many a cause, the crusader of many a hope; yet you lack the courage to be a hero, the spirit of sacrifice to be a saviour, and the persistency to be a crusader. There is a strong craving for religious emotion in your "make-up." You are not impressed so much by the simplicity of belief as by the ceremonial and ritual employed. When at your best, you are charming and attractive. When otherwise, you should not be "seen or heard in public."

Successful people born on June 5: Bushrod Washington, first president of American Colonization Society.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

EVIDENTLY with no intention whatever of being shouldered out of the running during the hot months, Paramount now straightens out for the stretch run and unfurls a list of twelve pictures which it claims will knock the customers right out of the grandstand between now and August.

Taking the words right out of Billy Hay's mouth, here they are:

"Up Pops the Devil," with Carole Lombard, "Skeets" Gallagher, Stuart Erwin, Norman Foster and Lilyan Tashman.

"The Lawyer's Secret," with Clive Brook, Charles Rogers, Fay Wray and Richard Arlen.

"The Vice Squad," with Paul Lukas, Kay Francis and Helen Johnson.

"Newly Rich," with Mitzi Green, Edna May Oliver, Jackie Searl and Louise Fazenda.

"The Girl Habit," with Charles Ruggles and an all-star cast.

"Women Love Once," with Paul Lukas, Eleanor Boardman and Juliette Compton.

"I Take This Woman," starring Gary Cooper, with Carole Lombard.

"Confessions of a Coed," with Phillips Holmes, Sylvia Sidney and Norman Foster.

"The Night Angel" starring Nancy Carroll and Fredric March.

"The Secret Call," with Richard Arlen and Peggy Shannon.

"The Magnificent Lie," starring Ruth Chatterton.

"Honeymoon Lane," starring Eddie Dowling, who wrote it.

As I have remarked before, quite a summer.

A memorial that has been frequently suggested but never executed is being arranged this week by Hardie Meakin, managing director of the RKO-Keith Theater.

As a tribute to the War President and a reminder of his fondness for the playhouse when it was one of the foremost vaudeville theaters in the world, Mr. Meakin is having a bronze plaque commemorative of Woodrow Wilson placed in the presidential box on the theater's mezzanine tier.

The formal installation and dedication, if present plans are successfully consummated, will be participated in by Mrs. Wilson and high officials of the Government.

Speaking of the RKO-Keith house, there is a costellar combination coming to the Fifteenth street screen a week from today that should exert a strong appeal to public interest. Following "The Good Bad Girl," RKO-Keith's will present Radio Pictures' production of "Transgression," in which the principal roles are played by Kay Francis and Ricardo Cortez.

It occurs to me that here is a combination that should strike fire in any man's cathedral of the cinema. Of course there is a popular notion which may be wholly fallacious, as this engagement ought to prove—that a stellar team of man and woman should a little more nearly balance the matter of pigmentation as between blonde and brunette, but I, for one, will be willing to take a chance on climacteric results when these two vivid brunettes once get going on opposite sides of some substantial dramatic premise.

During the course of his notable career in the field of music, Irving Aaronson, who brings his Commanders to the stage of the Palace for the week beginning tomorrow, has achieved what Mr. Lundy of the Loew forces describes as "an enviable reputation for the piquant finesse of his musical renditions." I shouldn't wonder.

Mr. Aaronson has only recently completed a successful engagement at the Ambassador Restaurant in Paris, where he entertained for an extended engagement and was privileged to put his band through its paces for such distinguished guests as Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the Prince of Wales, the famous Indian Rajahs—having no reference, as I understand it, to Mr. Peckinpaugh, of Cleveland—and the President of France.

If there were any doubt at all about it—and I dare say there isn't—the presence of Jay C. Flippen on the bill is insurance enough that Loew's "Bag of Blues" can't miss!

And since you have been worrying about it, those cumbersome old sound mufflers used several years ago in the making of Vitaphone pictures are as obsolete today as the old turnip watch that used to weigh a pound.

"Big Business Girl," in which Loretta Young makes her local debut as an individual star at the Earle Theater tomorrow, represents the product of the latest model, newfangled equipment known to the West Coast studios. The bogie of echoing stages was overcome by padding that stage, walls and roof and the big refrigerator boxes that the cameras were formerly placed in were supplanted by new, thin boxes placed over the heads of the cameras. The weight of these contraptions has been reduced from something like a ton to about 31 pounds.

I trust Miss Young lived up to these modern blessings, which, if you are still listening, afforded Director William A. Seiter—who is by way of being Mr. Laura La Plante—all the freedom of movement of players and camera that he enjoyed in the old days of silence.

And right here, just to beat you to it, is where we propose to become golden ourself!

YEARS OF GRACE

By MARGARET AYER BARNES

(SYNOPSIS.

Jimmy does not write or telephone Jane for three weeks, but she is so busy with her home and children that she has not much time to wonder about him. Finally he appears at her house one night, when Stephen remains in town, bringing his violin. Jane invites him to dinner. Jimmy plays and sings to the children, who are captivated by his charm. During the evening, Jane confesses to Jimmy that the life of a suburban housewife is sometimes tiring and that she often longs to go traveling with Stephen and the children. Jimmy laughingly invites her to leave home and travel around the world with him.

JIMMY—CHOPTER VII

IT HAPPENED just seven weeks later. It happened Thanksgiving afternoon, out beneath the apple tree beyond the little clump of evergreens at the foot of the garden. Jane was very much surprised, when it did.

The seven weeks had been full of incident. She had been seeing Jimmy quite often, of course. He had come out perhaps once a week to dinner. She had lunched with him in town one day and gone with him to a concert that he had to review for his paper. That was the only time, really, that they had been alone. He usually brought his fiddle when he came out to Lakewood and they had had lots of Debussy and a few more ballads. The children adored him, of course, and he had, somewhat to Jane's surprise, made rather a hit with Stephen. Jimmy had made rather a hit with every one, in fact. With her mother and Isabel and Flora and Muriel, who had had him to dinner just as soon as Bert was pronounced out of immediate danger, and declared him charming—much too good, indeed, for Agnes. Mr. Ward had raised the only dissenting voice. And all he had said was, after Jimmy had spent an unusually scintillating evening at the Wards' dinner table, that Agnes deserved a better fate. Jane knew that her father would think almost any fate unworthy of Agnes. He had admired her since her first days at Miss Milgrim's school. When pressed by his indignant daughters for further and more flattering comment, even Mr. Ward had admitted that Jimmy was very clever. He fitted delightfully in Jane's most intimate circle. That was why she had asked him out for Thanksgiving luncheon with the family.

Luncheon Not Very Brilliant.

Thanksgiving luncheon had been like all Thanksgiving luncheons—not very brilliant. There had been too much turkey and too many children to make for clever conversation around the groaning board. Mr. Ward had sat on Jane's right hand and Jimmy on her left. On either side of Stephen sat Mrs. Ward and Isabel. Robin and Miss Parrot and the five children filled up the center of the table. They had eaten for nearly two hours and then had sunk in recumbent attitudes around the chintz-hung living room. Suddenly, early in the afternoon, Jack Bridges sprang to his feet and asked Cicily, rather sheepishly, to go for a walk. She had deserted the younger children immediately and, whistling to the cocker spaniel puppy, had started off with him across the terrace. Jane had watched Jack help her, with adolescent gallantry, to climb over the stile that led to the open meadows. She had smiled, a trifle wistfully, over Cicily's budding coquetry. Cicily could have cleared that stile at a bound. While she was smiling Jimmy had roused himself from lethargy. He too had been watching the children.

"The younger generation is knocking at the door,' Jane," he had smiled. "But they have the right idea. Come out and walk 5 miles with me before sunset."

She had gone for her hat and coat without a moment's hesitation. Every one was staying on for supper. The children were playing jack straws and Stephen was talking politics with Mr. Ward and Robin, and her mother and Isabel were discussing Bert Lancaster's paralysis, with an occasional digression on Flora's hat shop. She was not needed in the living rom and she would love a long walk.

Pause in Shelter of Haystack.

They went out the terrace door and down the garden path and out into the fields in the opposite direction from the one which the children had taken. The November day was very cold and clear. The oak trees were already bare. The winter fields were brown. A high northwest wind was blowing across the Skokie Valley. It was difficult to talk in the teeth of the gale, and they had covered nearly 2 miles over the uneven stubble before they said much of anything. Then they paused in the shelter of a haystack.

"We must go back," said Jane, trying to tuck her wind-blown pompadour under her felt hatbrim.

"Must me?" said Jimmy. "This walk was just what I wanted."

"I'm all out of breath," said Jane. "That last cornfield was rough going for an old lady." She drew in a great gasp of the bracing autumn air.

"Was it?" said Jimmy. "You don't look much older than Cicily this minute. Your cheeks are red and your eyes are bright and your mussy hair is pretty. That's the true test of age for a woman. She's young as long as she looks beguiling with mussy hair!"

"I look like a wild Indian," said Jane, still struggling with the pompadour. "You ought to look at Cicily when the wind gets romping with her head of excelsior."

"That's Jack Bridges' privilege," said Jimmy. "I'm no cradle-snatcher."

Jane at Cicily's Age.

Jane left the haystack and started to walk back across the cornfield. It was easier to talk, now, with the wind at their backs. Nevertheless, they did not say anything for several minutes. Jane was hoping that Jack would bring Cicily home before dark. Jimmy broke the silence.

"Whose privilege was it, Jane, to look at you when you were Cicily's age?" he asked.

Jane started at the question. But she did not answer.

"I bet some one did," said Jimmy. "Who was he, Jane?"

"Oh," said Jane vaguely, "he—he was—just a boy."

"A broth of a boy?" questioned Jimmy. "Did you get much of a kick out of it?"

"Yes, I did," said Jane simply.

Jimmy looked very much amused at her candor.

"We all do at that age," he said cheerfully.

"I mean that Andre wasn't like any one—any one else I've ever met," said Jane.

"My God!" said Jimmy, addressing the empty November sky. "She never got over him! I hope," he continued severely, "that you confessed him to Stephen."

"Oh, I confessed him to Stephen," said Jane.

Again Jimmy looked very much amused at her candor.

"Good girl!" he said approvingly. "You must always confess them to Stephen."

Never Any Others She Insists.

Jane thought that her mother would think that Jimmy was taking the marriage vows lightly. She almost thought so herself.

"There haven't been any others," she said severely.

"Do you expect me to believe that?" said Jimmy.

"Not really any others," said Jane. "While there's life there's hope," said Jimmy.

"I don't want any others," said Jane indignantly.

"Oh, Jane!" said Jimmy.

"I don't," protested Jane. "I think clandestine love affairs would be horribly inconvenient."

"There are higher things than inconvenience," said Jimmy sublimely.

Jane ignored his comment.

"And I think," she went on, "they'd be dreadfully smirching and soiling. And too terrible to look back on when they were over. They would be over, you know. You get over loving any one——"

"Oh!" said Jimmy. "You've discovered that, have you?"

"No, I haven't!" said Jane quickly. "I—I've just—observed it."

Kisses Her Long and Ardently.

Jimmy chuckled quietly to himself. They walked wearily half a mile in silence. As they entered the garden, he resumed the conversation.

"You do get over loving any one, Jane," he said gently. "But you don't always regret that love in retrospect."

Jane thought that sounded very sweet and understanding.

"Perhaps not," she said. By this time they had reached the apple tree.

Jimmy paused for a moment beside the clump of evergreens. Jane looked up at him with a smile. They had had a nice walk.

"Jane," said Jimmy suddenly, "are you really as innocent as you seem?"

Jane's eyes widened in astonishment. Jimmy's eyes were very bright. His breath was coming quickly and a funy excited little smile twisted the corners of his mouth.

"You're like a child, Jane," said Jimmy. "An inexperienced child!"

Jane still stared at him.

"Jane," said Jimmy suddenly, "I'm going to kiss you." And he caught her suddenly in his arms and turned her face to his.

"Jimmy!" cried Jane in horror. "Jimmy!" His lips stopped her words. He kissed her long and ardently. Jane struggled in his arms. His cheek scratched her face. She pulled herself from his embrace and stood staring at him in the garden path. "Oh, Jimmy!" she cried again. "How—how could you?"

She Asks Him Not to Enter House.

Suddenly she remembered the house at the end of the garden. She glanced quickly, fearfully, at the white clap-board facade. The clump of evergreens hid the dining-room windows. But was that Miss Parrot's white sleeve in the playroom bay above? Jane felt suddenly overwhelmed with a sence of humiliation. She had been kissed—kissed like a pretty chambermaid in her own garden. She glanced at her own front windows, fearful of a spying servant's ironical eye.

"Jimmy," she said, "I wouldn't have believed it of you!" He was looking down at her, now, still breathing rather quickly. The excited little smile still twisted the corners of his mouth. He looked more like a faun than ever, thought Jane, with an unconscious shiver. "Will you please go back to Chicago, now, at once?" she said with dignity. "Will you please go back without coming into the house?"

Jimmy looked very much astonished.

"Why Jane—Jane—" he faltered. "Do you really mind so awfully?"

"I'm going in," said Jane. And I don't want you to follow me." She turned abruptly away from him and walked up the garden path to the terrace, trying to put her face in order. She opened the terrace door and entered the living-room. The family were all still lounging about the fire.

"Where's Jimmy?" asked Isabel.

Lies Forced on Her by Jimmy.

"He's gone," said Jane, turning her back on them to close the terrace door. "He wasn't staying to supper. He had to get back to the 'News.'" Lies, she thought contemptuously, lies, forced on her by Jimmy, forced on her by her own damnable lack of foresight! She ought to have known what was coming. She ought to have prevented it. She turned from the door and faced the family tranquilly.

"What's up, Jane?" asked Robin. "You looked like an avenging angel. Your cheeks are as red as fire."

"It's just the wind," said Jane. More lies! "There's a perfect tornado blowing." She raised her hands to rearrange her pompadour. As she did so, she rubbed her fingers violently across her mouth. She could still feel Jimmy's lips there. She could feel his kiss, still vibrating through her entire body. Suddenly she caught her father's eyes. Mr. Ward was sitting comfortably in Stephen's armchair beside the smouldering fire. Behind a cloud of cigar smoke he was watching his younger daughter very intently. Jane managed to achieve a smile. No one else was paying any attention to her whatever. Jane sat down on the soft beside Isabel and tried to listen to what she had to say about the cubistic designs that Flora was painting on the wall of the old coach-house. Isabel thought they were very comic. Mrs. Ward thought they were hardly respectable. Mr. Ward continued to watch them from behind the cloud of cigar smoke.

THE NERO LEGEND

THERE IS NO EVIDENCE THAT NERO WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR THE BURNING OF ROME. HE WAS 50 MILES AWAY AT THE TIME. HE DID HOWEVER EXPRESS SATISFACTION BECAUSE IT ENABLED ROME TO BUILD A BETTER CITY. SEUTONIUS, DION AND OTHERS SPREAD THE STORY THAT HE SANG WHILE ROME BURNED. LATER WRITERS ACCUSED HIM OF FIDDLING, BUT UNJUSTLY.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

RAW MILK DANGEROUS.

DR. P. R. BAIRD lists six diseases of cows which can be transmitted to man through his drinking milk. First in importance has been tuberculosis, and it still is in many parts of the country. Dr. Baird writes: "At the present time New England is practically free from this once common source of infection. This is not entirely true of all parts of New England, but it is of the northern and less densely populated parts generally. It is true of much of the South and of a large part of the West, but it is not true, as yet, of the great dairy districts in any region."

However, we agree with Dr. Baird that every year witnesses an increasing zone in which there is a reasonable degree of safety.

One of the considerable remaining menaces is that of septic sore throat. The prevailing opinion is that this is due to infection of the udder with a special form of streptococcus.

Two other diseases of cows which produce unwholesome milk are hemorrhagic enteritis and septicemia. If a consumer uses milk from a cow with the former he may have diarrhea and headache. Milk from cows with the latter is not fit for human consumption. The next two diseases given are abortion disease and undulant fever. Dr. Baird treats them as separate, though most bacteriologists and physicians regard them as essentially the same. One argument for duality is the very great prevalence of abortion disease among cows and the infrequency of undulant fever among those who drink cow's milk and even the milk from infected cows.

So far as the consumer is concerned, he had better drink only safe milk while the bacteriologists fight it out among themselves. Pasteurized milk is safe milk. It is safe as regards undulant fever, tuberculosis, septic sore throat and the symptoms caused by milk from cows with hemorrhagic enteritis.

This is only a part of the story. Milk may be the medium of infection with diseases that spread from man to man. Such are scarlet fever, typhoid, diphtheria and some others. The danger from these diseases is greater than the other. Against neither group is there any protection that compares in efficiency with pasteurization.

HAVE AN EXAMINATION.

A. D. writes: I am a stenographer in a loop office, 22 years of age, with probably better than average health. I am rarely ill, am never troubled with headaches or other slight ailments and, although a trifle too slender, I feel perfectly fit. Lately I have noticed that when I return to my desk after my lunch and a hurried dashing through the various department stores my heart beats rapidly for some time. While I am not worried about this as yet, I believe I could allow myself to worry over it easily. Do you think I have any cause for worry?

REPLY.

I suggest that you have a physical examination, including an examination of the heart, metabolism test, and examination of the blood for anemia.

CROWDER HURLS NATS TO 3RD STRAIGHT OVER TIGERS, 5-1; JURADO, ARGENTINIAN, AND COTTON LEAD BRITISH OPEN

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

AMONG the items of interest in connection with the relentless rush of Mr. McGillicuddy's Athletics toward their third straight American League pennant is the pitching record of the Big Three—Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg.

Mr. Mack's stolidness at the start of the season in the face of the fears of both his well-wishers and ill-wishers that his numerically deficient pitching staff was a menace to his pennant aspirations appears now to have been well justified in the light of the performance of his Big Three.

The old reliable statistics inform us that Grove, Walberg and Earnshaw, with only 41 games of the 154-game schedule passed into the limbo, have won among them 28 contests and lost only 5 for an impressive average of .833.

Of these 30 games in which the Big Three have figured, the great Grove has won 9 and lost 1; Earnshaw has won 8 and lost 2, and Walberg has won 8 and lost 2.

Walberg No Hazard

The most gratifying aspect of the performances of Mack's terrible trinity has been the sensational come-back of Rube Walberg, who for the past two seasons has been a dangerous hazard on the pitching mound. With little or no warning, Walberg, who three years ago was reputed to boast as fast a curve—not speed ball—as the great Grove, has developed into a consistent winner and his victories more than those of the other two have been accounted for in complete games that he has pitched.

Mack's mighty trio carry an added kick in that two of them are of portside persuasion, thereby enhancing their effectiveness against the weight of the batting power in the league which is concentrated in left-handed hitting.

The mere statistics do not convey the total value of Mack's big three. In the fact that both Grove and Earnshaw are young and strong and veritable workhorses of the mound, lies a major portion of their usefulness and Mack has not spared them in relief roles.

Mack May Be Pioneer

Perhaps Mack's pitching strategy foreshadows the dawn of a new era in the life of major league hurlers who, according to the criticism of the old timers are coddled to a ridiculous extent with four and five day lay-offs between games.

Walter Johnson in his heyday with the Nats required no more than three days' rest and the other immortals of the mound were often seen in action every third day, but the modern tendency of resting starting pitchers for four full days has been taken up now for several years. With Grove and Earnshaw always available in starting and relief roles, sometimes working as many as five games a week, Mack, perhaps, is pioneering in a new order of things in big league pitching.

Groves and Earnshaws may happen only once in a decade on any one team, but Mack certainly has shown the way to capitalize on their type.

Mack and Walberg

This column was indeed surprised to learn of the especial strategy which the canny Mack applies to Rube Walberg.

It seems that Walberg, in spite of his phlegmatic countenance, a heritage from his Norse forebears, is the most temperamental of Mack's staff. One look at Walberg's seamed visage and the popular superstition is that nothing short of a divine visitation would cause him any annoyance.

But, it seems that the 6 foot 1 200-pound Rube is visibly affected by least pregame flurry, including the presence of a large crowd in the stands, and Mack dare not, lest the Rube worry himself into a state of incompetency, announced to Walberg that he is slated to pitch on a particular afternoon until the moment arrives for the starting hurler to take his place in the warm-up bullpen.

Rumor hath it that Mack's well known disinclination to announce his pitchers until game time is ascribed to his strategy in Walberg's case, with the rule made general to cover all his pitchers, to conceal his special phychology in dealing with the Rube.

Farrell Fourth With 149; Sarazen and Kirkwood Fifth.

Smiths Remain in Running; Turnesa, Manero Out.

By FRANK H. KING.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 4 (A.P.).—Jose Jurado, hard-hitting bantamweight from Argentina, and Henry Cotton, hope of England, today led the British open golf championship field in the second round with 36-hole totals of 147.

Close on their heels came Tommy Armour, the transplanted Scot, who has lived in the United States for several years, with 148, and one stroke farther back was Johnny Farrell, with 149.

Tied at 150 for fifth place were Gene Sarazen, like Armour and Farrell, a former United States open champion Joe Kirkwood, of New York, and W. T. Twine, the Kent professional.

The Prince of Wales is coming up tomorrow to witness the final rounds of the biggest international battle in British golfing history. The field of 66 pros still in the running for Bobby Jones' British title hail from five different countries.

Turnesa, Manero Fall by Wayside.

Two of the nine Americans in the competition fell by the wayside today, Joe Turnesa having 160 to finish just one stroke outside the charmed circle in which were the 60 best scores and ties, while Tony Manero had 162.

Still in the running with Armour, Farrell, Sarazen and Kirkwood were Willie Hunter, who had 151, MacDonald Smith, 152, and Horton Smith with 156.

With a half gale sweeping out of the North Sea over Carnoustie, the old links was a difficult test of golf. Jurado made his 71, equaling the record Mac Smith set Tuesday in the qualifying round, early in the day when the wind wasn't blowing quite so strong as it was later, but this does not detract from the little Argentine's play.

The British persist in their contention that foreigners can't play golf in the gales of England and Scotland, but Jurado has gales of his own at the Argentino Club, Buenos Aires, and he reveled in the winds which dismayed many bigger men.

Cotton's Stamina Questionable.

The only question about his ultimate position in the tournament is whether he has the stamina to last through tomorrow's gruelling, nerve-wracking 36-hole test.

Cotton tonight looms as the likeliest winner. His play this season has shown he has the ability to continue his steady play, and unless some one gets hot and starts cracking par young Henry may win, since he will be at perfect figures or thereabouts nearly any time he goes out.

Armour and Farrell, one and two strokes behind, respectively, were in the favored strategic spot. The strain of leading the pack frequently is upsetting, while the man in easy striking distance is not subject to that strain and will often play the best golf. Walter Hagen always liked to loaf along just off the pace, and then come with a rush in the final 36 or 18 holes.

Wind Is Disastrous on Homeward Holes.

Today's battles were all centered on the homeward holes, where the wind was always blowing either across the course or directly in the players' faces. Players who stumbled on the outward nine had little hope to recover coming in, which was one reason Farrell did not place higher. He had a 37 coming home for the best score on the last nine during the day.

Compston's 7 at the eighteenth, which is crossed and recrossed by Barry Burn, ruined his score and Sarazen's costly 6 there kept him from

Four District Linksmen Qualify

Pitt, Nolan, O'Tell, McCallum in Mid-Atlantic Flight.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va., June 4 (A.P.).—The long and difficult Princess Anne Country Club course, with fairways fringed by thick woods and greens tricky and rolling, today held its par barrier of 72 unbroken as fourscore players attempted qualification in the Middle Atlantic men's golf championship here.

To 22-year-old Ernest Caldwell, former public links champion of Baltimore and only recently become a member of the Hillendale Golf Club, went the medal for qualifying honors. His 74 was a stroke lower than Harry B. Pitt, of Washington, and Charles Kent, of Richmond. Caldwell had a 38 on the first nine, including a penalty, as his drive landed in the road. Coming back he made even 4s and 1 under par for 36. Pitt, who won the Middle Atlantic Tournament in 1928 on the Congressional course at Washington, burned up the first nine with an even par 35, but he was 3 over on the back nine.

Three other Washingtonians in addition to Pitt qualified in the championship flight. They were Dr. L. S. O'Tell, of Indian Spring, with 41—38—79; W. P. Nolan, Congressional, with 39—41—80, and Walter McCallum, Washington Golf and Country Club, with 38—44—82, who gained the first flight only after a play-off.

Billy Howell, of Richmond, who won the Middle Atlantic championship last year on his home course, was four blows behind the medalist with a 78. Howell coupled a poor start and finish with a blazing 12-hole stretch along the route. He ran three over par on the first four holes, shot an even dozen holes in standard figures and then blew up to take three more than par on the seventeenth and eighteenth. With Howell at 78 were S. Q. Collins, of Virginia

Reds in Second Straight Win; Beat Phils, 5-2

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 4 (A.P.).—Cincinnati made it two straight over the Phillies today, rallying for four runs in the eighth to win by 5 to 2. Ray Benge, who had given only four hits in seven innings, was touched for two singles, a walk and a double in the eighth, Cuccinello's double driving in the winning run. Pinky Whitney, Philadelphia third baseman, with a pair of doubles, hit safely in his eighteenth consecutive game.

Browns Pound Ruffing To Score 8-to-6 Victory

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Concentrating their attack on Charley Ruffing in the first and fourth innings to pile up seven runs, the St. Louis Browns won their second straight from the Yankees today, 8 to 6.

Jim Levey, Browns' shortstop, opened the game with a home run on the first ball pitched. Lou Gehrig hit his ninth of the year in the sixth with Ruth on base. Goose Goslin led the visitors' attack with a single, double and triple.

Oscar Melillo's consecutive hitting streak was broken at eight straight when he flied to Coombs in the first inning.

PHILADELPHIA, June 4 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics, yet to lose a game to a Western team this season, won their third straight from the Chicago White Sox today, 4 to 1.

Earnshaw held the Sox to three hits, all singles, in winning his eighth straight game.

Fothergill's single, scoring Tate in the third inning, averted a shutout for Chicago.

Jimmy Foxx's tenth home run of the season, with one on base in the second inning, started the champions on their way.

Middies' Crews Ready For Poughkeepsie Test

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., June 4.—Naval Academy oarsmen will wind up their training on home water Saturday and on Sunday will leave for the banks of the Hudson to put the finishing touches to preparations for the forthcoming intercollegiate classic at Poughkeepsie. Varsity, junior varsity and freshmen eight are to compete in the big show.

Today four eight-oared shells, one for reserve, and two motor launches for coaching purposes, were lashed to the decks of two sub chasers, which will leave tomorrow for Poughkeepsie. The trip will be made via the inner, or canal route. The Middies sweepsters will use old boats for their final workouts tomorrow and Saturday.

HADLEY MAY OPPOSE TIGERS

Brown, Jones Ailing; Harris Planning to Use Uhle.

FOR practically the first time this season, Manager Walter Johnson is doubtful as to his starting pitcher in the final of the series with the Detroit Tigers this afternoon. Lloyd Brown, scheduled to have performed yesterday, developed a sore arm, from a cold in his left shoulder resulting from exposure to the rain last Sunday, while "Sad Sam" Jones also has been complaining that his salary wing is under par.

The latter may be in good condition today, though, and if so Jones will draw the assignment. Otherwise, it will be Irving (Bump) Hadley. Manager Bucky Harris will turn over his box assignment to the veteran George Uhle, who has been pitching well this season.

As the Nats have won three straight here, and their last two against the Tigers in Detroit, victory today will be six straight for them at the Harrismen's expense.

While the Tigers have not proved to be a good drawing card here, a large crowd is expected this afternoon as the first ladies' day invitation of the season has been extended by the Nats.

Drastic Revamping of Tiger Line-Up.

Trying to change the Tigers' luck, Manager Harris completely changed his batting order, not a player, except the batterymen, coming up to the tee in the order which has been effective for the past week.

The umpires changed, too, only Ormsby and Nallin working, as Owens reported ill.

Coach Nick Altrock has entered the Nats' "best-dressed man" contest. He showed up yesterday bedecked in a blue coat, white flannel pants and brown and white shoes; topping things off was a nobby Panama. "I've been kinda under wraps," said the veteran, "but I thought I'd get in this contest just to show the boys that I haven't been asleep during my travels and I know how to dress when I set my mind to it."

Italian Boxers Upholding Tradition of Fascisti as World's Best Poor Sports

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, June 4.—If the shrill squawk of the Italian Fascisti boxing team and the ensuing riot in the Garden Wednesday night had been the first incident of the kind chargeable to the Italians, the matter might be laughed off as nothing more significant than one of those harmless midsummer pop-bottle throwings which the major league ball players have learned to expect in St. Louis during the dog days. But the Italians have become such petulant bulldozers in international sport competitions since Mussolini filled them with delusion of grandeur that it would be quite reasonable of the Olympic authorities to consider barring them out of the 1932 Olympics on the ground that they have not yet learned the rudiments of sporting behavior.

When they lose a soccer game with an inferior power in continental Europe they bluster and scream and their newspapers threaten to block a loan to the offending nation in the League of Nations. When they send an insulting trophy, a statue of Mussolini freight charges c. o. d., a sentimental token and political reminder, to the football team of another subject nation which has beaten them fairly on the field, and the victim of this gesture in decent pride declines the statue, they want to shell the capital.

Boxers' Squawks Reach Mussolini's Ears.

When their boxers go to France and try to weigh in pounds below the weights for their respective classes, and the French stand pat on their rights, the Italians squawk to their ambassador, who relays the squawk to the big fellow down in Rome and the managers of the Italian teams yank their fighters out of the ring.

They were bad sports in one of the Olympic boxing tournaments, and during the Fascist riot at the Garden Wednesday night the telegraph operator, sitting beside me, said he had also seen a knife come sailing down from the gallery at one of the international horse shows when some Italian riders were beaten by a narrow margin. In the fight that started the row at the Garden, Edelweis Rodrigues, the Italian flyweight, was plainly licked, and if an American amateur had tried the same scene in a ring in Europe, even though he had been robbed, an American trainer of the type of Jimmy Bronson, far from bawling with him, would have fetched him a good swift slap in the mouth and a kick in the pants to cure his hysteria.

The trouble with Edelweis and with the Fascisti team and their rooters was that they had been spoiled. Edelweis had never lost a fight before, the Fascisti team as a unit had not been beaten since the Amsterdam Olympics and the Mussolinio propaganda had imbued the young men with the idea that, even if they were beaten, nobody would have the audacity to give a verdict against them.

Italians Will Have No Invitation to Refuse.

Their manager, Mario Cobianchi, continuing the strident squawk long after the valiant rioters had been smacked down by a few common New York harness policemen, announced that never again would Italy accept an invitation to send an athletic team to the United States. The opportunity for such a refusal is not likely to arise soon because not only little Edelweis, the crushed

Cubs Down Robins, 6-4, On Cuyler's Home Run

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Hazen Cuyler smashed a long home run into the center-field bleachers in the ninth inning today with Grimm on first to give the Cubs a 6-to-4 victory over the Brooklyn Robins in the third game of the series.

The Cubs had fought an uphill fight to tie the score for the first time in the seventh inning. Cuyler's hit gave Les Sweetland his fifth consecutive victory.

Four homers were hit during the afternoon, one of them by Hack Wilson, last year's home-run king. He also singled, walked once and scored the first three Cub runs. Wright and Lombardi, of the Robins, also hit for the circuit.

NEW ARMY CAPTAIN.

Bridges Pounded in Early Innings for 5-Run Lead.

Lax Play on Bases Is Costly to Tigers; Held to 7 Hits.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALTHOUGH the sun worked overtime at Griffith Stadium yesterday, "General" Alvin Crowder furnished the brightness, as the Nats viewed things, by going the route for the first time this season and beating the Tigers, 5 to 1, while doing so. Crowder's victory was no fluke, either, for he managed to tighten up the few times that the going became rough and, but for two walks in the seventh, would have been credited with a shutout. He held the Tigers to seven hits.

The defeat marked the Jungle Cats' eighth in succession and their sixteenth loss in their last eighteen starts, while the triumph, coupled with a Yankee loss, increased the Nats' second-place margin to three full games, although they are still five back of the pace-setting Mackmen, who seem to be able to do everything else but lose.

All that the Tigers drew from yesterday's game, which was the Nats' third straight win of the series, was extra-base honors, for four of their seven blows were doubles, while all of the Nats' eleven hits were good for but one base. Johnson's charges managed to cluster several of their safeties off Tom Bridges, though, and this is why the Tigers are still in the doldrums.

Tigers Play Loose on Bases.

That the Jungaleers did not benefit more from their attack is due to the weird and, at times, stupid work on the bases. Twice, following doubles, men were killed trying to steal third, while on another occasion Stone practically committed suicide by trying to stretch his two-bagger when he saw Cronin taking West's return peg while he was just rounding the middle base. In the seventh, Akers tried to steal third with only one out, his team four runs behind and Pinch-hitter George Uhle up. This proved particularly helpful to Crowder.

Except for the Tigers' scoring round, Crowder was in but two holes, a shallow one in the second, when Johnson doubled and Akers singled after two were out, and a deep pit in the fifth. Johnson opened this inning with his second double of the game and later stole third. After the next two had been retired the "General" committed a real crime by walking the weak-hitting Bridges after having the count 2 and 2 on him. Then Stone watched four wide ones pass and the aisles were packed, with Marty McManus up. This veteran is noted for being dangerous in the pinches, but he failed this time, rolling to Bluege.

Tigers Score in Seventh.

Detroit's lone marker came in the "stretch" session, it being more or less of a gift by Crowder, who walked the first two to face him. Grabowski's single scored one, but Akers, the other stroller, was held at second. It was here that the Tiger shortstop pulled his "boner" and possibly checked a winning rally. Already in position to score on a hit and with his team four runs behind, and a pinch hitter up, he tried to steal third and was thrown out. Then Uhle fanned and Myer made

Ferrell Hero as Tribe Wins Tenth Straight

Boston, June 4 (A.P.).—Wesley Ferrell chalked up his eighth pitching victory of the season today and Cleveland its tenth straight win by defeating the Red Sox, 10 to 2.

In addition to his pitching honors, Ferrell slapped a home run into the center-field tip of the right-field bleachers in the ninth with one on. The hit was the outstanding one of the Indians' 19 blows, all but two of which were made off Jack Russell.

The victory was the third in the Indians' series with the Bostonians and also set Ferrell's record for the season at eight wins and two losses. The homer was his fourth of the season.

FLORIDA BETTING BILL IS PASSED OVER VETO OF GOVERNOR

Turfmen Win 20-Year Fight

Throngs Gather on House Floor During 55-26 Vote.

Measure Is Violently Attacked; Law Is Effective Now.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., June 4 (A.P.).—After a 20-year controversy racetracking and pari-mutuel wagering were legalized in Florida today when the House of Representatives joined the State Senate in overriding Gov. Doyle E. Carlton's veto of the first racing bill ever to pass both houses.

The Legislature's action makes the law effective immediately. It provides for local referendums in counties desiring racing tracks and sets up a State racing commission for control of horse and dog racing tracks.

By a vote of 55 to 26, the House mustered a necessary two-thirds majority of members present by virtually the same slim margin as in the Senate, which voted 26 to 12 to override the veto.

Great throngs crowded the House floor and galleries as opponents of the racing bill termed it degrading and "a ruinous measure." Proponents urged that the governor's veto be overridden to permit regulation by the State of the tracks, which they said had been in operation for many years. They said regulation was necessary to correct race track conditions.

Counties to Divide Tax on Tracks.

The new law levies a tax of 3 per cent of pari-mutuel gross receipts and 15 per cent on admissions. The revenue will be divided equally among counties of Florida.

Gov. Carlton in his veto message on May 29 said he was opposed on moral and economic grounds to the State "entering a partnership with gambling officials in Kentucky, where pari-mutuel wagering is legalized, saying its effects would be demoralizing."

Racing has been conducted during Florida's winter seasons for many years, using oral and other systems of wagering. Court suits and injunctions have been numerous and in 1927 former Gov. John W. Martin halted racing for a time by a threat to send the State militia to tracks unless sheriffs enforced the State gambling laws.

During last season, all tracks used a stock certificate system which its sponsors claimed did not violate the gambling laws. Joseph E. Widener, New York sportsman and chairman of the board of the Miami Racing Association, which operates the Hialeah Horse Track, testified before a legislative committee his association paid $103,000 royalty to two Tampans who devised the stock certificates.

Among the first bills introduced in this session of the Legislature, the pari mutuel measure passed the Senate, 20 to 15, and the House, 55 to 38. It was vetoed by the governor May 29.

Representative J. M. Lee, of Highlands County, charged that he had been offered money to retire from the chamber and voice no opposition to the bill. Others referred to the measure as "iniquitous" and "damnable."

Things They Tell Us —By C. M. Payne

Boots and Saddle's

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Washington Park Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

WASHINGTON PARK, Chicago, June 4.—Another featureless program has been arranged for the patrons of Washington Park, but, nevertheless, the various contests are well filled and the Hazelton Purse, an allowance affair, which tops the card, should prove an interesting battle. This number, fifth on the list, calls out a select group of nine high-class sprinters to contest the $1,200 purse over the 7-furlong distance, which is fashioned for 3-year-olds exclusively.

The opening dash for 3-year-old maiden fillies at 5 furlongs, and the remaining contests to be decided under claiming conditions, two of which are sprints, one at a mile and the last two events at the mile and an eighth route, round out a well-balanced week-day program.

Of the nine named to start in the Hazelton INSCO, fleet 3-year-old colt in the G. Watkins Stable, has displayed brilliant form in his recent engagements and, with an impost of 110 pounds, figures to outfoot his rivals at the 7-furlong distance. The Watkins color bearer stepped 6 furlongs in 1:13 4-5 for his final preparation. BURNING UP," from the Mrs. Denemark string, winner of his last four starts, is gifted with a high turn of speed and should force the pace of the top one. LIGHTNING BOLT, weakened in his last effort at a mile and an eighth, after setting the pace, and at the shorter distance here is given the show call.

FIRST RACE—In the day's opener GALA FLIGHT, in the same stable as Insco, appears the choice over the twenty juvenile maiden fillies which will contest the 5-furlong sprint. This youngster raced greenly in her debut the other day and should improve enough to graduate from this field. The Leiter entry of PRINCESS A. A. and PRINCESS NANCY are favored to the place. SUSU has disappointed in recent starts, but should get into the money against this band of nonwinners.

SECOND RACE—Another limit of list of twenty platers will face the barrier in the 6 furlongs of the second heat. JUSTINIA, a consistent filly in the G. Collins string and winner of her last two efforts, should lead this large field to the wire. OPIPIO has been freshened up for his seasonal debut and, with a six-panel spin in 1:16 2-5, which attests his fitness, he is selected to furnish stern opposition. BOURBON MAID appears best of the others for the minor award.

THIRD RACE—Juveniles will contest the 5 furlongs of the third event, which brings together a field of 20 2-year-olds to contest the $1,200 purse. BAD AXE, from the Nevada Stock Farm Stable, and a consistent youngster at Pimlico, is reported in prime condition for his Chicago campaign and is given the call. ALLENFERN, the J. P. Jones youngster, should finish in the runner-up position, with ANITA ORMONT as the show selection. The latter turned in a splendid effort last start to finish second a neck behind FLYING and may extend the top ones.

FOURTH RACE—A choice list of five 3-year-olds and upward were received in the one mile, of the Avalon Park Purse, fourth on the card. C. V. Whitney's SKIRL has the most consistent form of his four rivals and rates the top call. VERMICULITE, from the H. M. Woolfe barn, forced the pace last outing but weakened in the stretch. With room for improvement the Woolfe filly figures to gain the place. WHILE AWAY has been worked briskly and is favored over OUTCRY and CAMP PRINCE for the show card.

SIXTH RACE—The sixth event, which calls out a list of twenty of the older platters in training, should result in a victory for MILE PLAY. The Coldstream Stud's useful colt scored impressively in his recent effort and under identical conditions here, is selected to repeat. DEVON is another consistent plater which should go well against this company. HARPOON would appreciate mud but nevertheless, should manage to get into the picture.

SEVENTH RACE—In the concluding mile and an eighth number, which is fashioned for 3-year-old fillies, a list of twenty entrants was received. ST. AGNES, from the H. Rosecacher string, raced well at Maryland and her last winning effort at the Downs makes her the logical choice. COUSIN DOLL raced Peach Rose to a head in her previous outing and should furnish the opposition. ANN CLAY has shown improvement and rates the show call.

MITCHELL DEFEATS MANGAN IN CITY TENNIS TOURNEY FINAL

Westend Star Is Winner In 4 Sets

Gains McLean Trophy as Versatile Attack Fires Veteran.

Mangan's Rally Wins 3d Set; Scores, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

DROPSHOOTING almost every vestige of running ability out of his more elderly opponent, Dooly Mitchell, kinky-haired idol of Montrose Park and points West, yesterday won his first City of Washington singles title, using as his stepping stone Tom Mangan, who succumbed to the score 6—3, 6—3, 4—6, 6—2.

It was the last event on a rendezvous of tennis which started May 18, which sets an intersectional record of stringing out. With the victory Mitchell becomes possessor for one year of the massive Jock McLean Trophy, which was presented to him at the conclusion of the match by Winfree Johnson. Mangan receives a racquet, and both are slated to receive medallions from the U. S. L. T. A.

Mitchell displayed as metamorphosed a caliber of game as has ever been seen on the local courts. Gone or completely submerged was the speed of shot which has made him feared in most tennis circles. In place was this aggravating dropshot and a lob which traveled high and deep into the court, further to ruin the day of Mangan, one of whose pet aversions is running after short shots, and the other of which is hitting overhead smashes.

Mangan Superior at Own Style.

The only period during the entire match when Mitchell took up the reins of his old game and stood in the back court and blasted his shots Manganward, Mangan gained the greatest ground, and won his only set. But Mitchell soon returned to his predestined style of play and pulled away without especial difficulty.

Starting with the score 3—1 against him and deuce, Mangan served out the game in his favor to pull the score to 3—2. Mitchell had foregone the duty of warming up completely before starting the match but settled down surprisingly well to run up to 3—2, holding his own and taking Mangan's serve. He dropped his own in face of some rockbound steadiness on Mangan's part, but retorted by stopping Tom's for the set, 6—3. He ended the set with a dropshot which died, once it had cleared the net.

Dooly went to 2—0 in the second, saw Tom come abreast and then went out again, was once more overtaken, at 3—3, and began crowning the hill successively for the remainder of the set. Mangan helped matters along by missing the shots he rarely flubs and it was soon Mitchell's set, 6—3.

Mitchell Drops Third Set.

Mangan exhibited his best tennis of the match in the third set, taking the bit in his teeth just when the crowd began to fidget and decide on their exit. Stroking forehands and backhands with all his old-time whip he won the first and third game, for a 2—1 lead and then romped home, winning his own serve throughout and breaking Mitchell's once, for 6—4.

But Mitchell once more returned to his insidious drop shot and before long Mangan began disdaining the very notion of chasing them. Mixing this shot with a flawless lob, and an occasional crack to boot, Mitchell raced to 5—0 in the last, tread water awhile, as Mangan made to tremendously good passing shots with match point against him (a rally Mangan backed up by winning the next game) and then ran out the point, game, set, match and Jock McLean Trophy on his service, 6—2.

It was not particularly good tennis. Each player showed the effects of the disappointing postponements which dropped up before the consummation of the tournament.

It was a new Mitchell for the 500 odd fans who witnessed the affair. He hit his shots differently, played his points more carefully, hit down the middle instead of down the lines, refused to throw points, and generally conducted himself like another person. The only familiar thing he did all afternoon was to show up 20 minutes late for the match.

a good stop of Stone's hot grasser to end the round with a force play at second.

The Nats rang up a five-run lead in the first six frames, getting two each in the third and fifth and one in the sixth. Myer's safe hunt and singles by Sam Rice, Cronin and West were responsible for the first pair, while the other two were coined from successive one-basers by Sam Rice, Manush and Cronin, with Walker kicking in an error while fielding Manush's shot. An error by Akers, Crowder's single and Myer's long fly accounted for the loner in round 6. Then Charley Sullivan toed the slab and he granted but one hit in the remaining two frames.

Johnson, with two doubles, led the allen attack, while Sam Rice, Manush, Cronin and West all were credited with two singles for the Nats. The fielding features were provided by Walker and Sam Rice, both of whom traveled far in "Jesse James" roles.

The Griffith Seniors dropped a 3-0 decision to the Foxall seniors yesterday on the Monument Grounds. Quigley pitched well for the winners.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

CONTRACTS for products of J. Ogden Armour's Company during the World War were estimated at $1,000,000,000 a year. To take care of this tremendous bulk of business, an extensive building and expansion campaign was undertaken. The end of the war caused cancelled contracts and deflated prices which caused great losses to the company which had been operating at a billion dollar-a-year speed.

Millions of dollars were lost by Armour the first few years following the war, and at one stage of this post-war depression, he lost a million dollars a day for 130 days.

Eureka Springs, Ark., is so hilly that not even a small circus has found a spot level enough to erect its main tent there. The Public Schools have never had a football team, lacking a level field, and their baseball team is forced to travel five miles to obtain a site suitable for a game. Public parking spaces in the business district have been made by filling in or erecting a platform across valleys. Planes of the local airport fly below the level of their landing field, made from scraping off the top of a mountain.

Salisbury, Md., May Share Home Games of Orioles

Baltimore Club Official Advances Proposal to Divide Home Contests With Eastern Shore Center, Which Owns Big Park.

Special to The Washington Post.

SALISBURY, Md., June 4.—When the Baltimore Orioles return home from their International League jaunt next Sunday, the management will consider a proposal for a division of their season's home games with Salisbury—a move probably without precedent in the larger leagues.

The proposal has been advanced by George M. Weiss, vice president and general manager of the Baltimore club, who will come here after the road trip to discuss the plan with a group of local sportsmen, who would join in sponsoring the games here.

Old League Park Is Available.

The arrangement that would give this city an entree in the class AA circuit, if only on a part-time basis, was revealed today in communications between Weiss and S. Franklyn Woodcock, who heads the local sponsors. Gordy Park, formerly home of the now defunct Eastern Shore League, will be available for the proposed games, State Comptroller William S. Gordy, jr., one of the owners, stated.

This plant, with a regulation playing field, has inclosed grand stand with a seating capacity of approximately 30,000, arranged so that additions could be erected with little difficulty. Repairs to a portion of the fence would inclose the outfield and the park would be ready for use within a few days.

The Newark Club of the International League and the Williamsport, Pa., Club of the New York-Pennsylvania League have used the park for spring training.

City Center of 200,000 Population.

Salisbury is sufficiently close to Baltimore that the Orioles could travel here from that city in little more than four hours. The arrangement would not interrupt the league schedule.

While the city itself has a population of little more than 11,000 inhabitants, it is the center of the Delaware, Maryland and Virginia Peninsula, with a population of approximately 200,000 from which to draw. The entire Eastern Shore has been without organized sport since the old Eastern Shore Baseball League disbanded four years ago.

Cards Beat Giants, 6-5, On Adams' Pinch Hit

St. Louis, Mo., June 4 (A.P.).—The Cardinals increased their first place lead to two and one-half games today by defeating the New York Giants, 6 to 5, in the third game of the series.

Adams doubled to start the ninth inning and Pepper Martin, batting for Collins, singled to center to drive home the winning run.

Bill Hallahan pitched his first complete game of the year for the Cardinals and shaded Carl Hubbell in a southpaw duel. Farnkie Frisch, team captain, returned to second base after being out for a week and drove in two runs and scored twice himself to help the league champions defeat their outstanding rivals.

Hogan hit two doubles and a home run for the Giants.

CELTS MEET D.C. RED SOX SUNDAY

Celtics Challenged by Typos; Smith Beats "Old Alex."

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 4.—The St. Mary's Celtics Baseball Team will mix with the Washington Red Sox in the feature contest to be played in Ben Baggett's Stadium, head of King street, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Early in the season the Red Sox invaded Alexandria and lost a 5-to-2 tussle to the Green and Gold. It was one of the best games played in the park this season. In preparation for the battle, Coach Art Ludlow has called several important practices.

"We want a game with the St. Mary's Celtics and are willing to play them for a $100 side bet, with the game to be played in American League Park, the loser to pay all expenses," declared E. Lowery, manager of the Union Printers. Lowery also said he was unwilling to play this game in Alexandria, but if the Celtics would agree he would play the contest any place in Washington, providing American League Park could not be secured.

An answer to this challenge is expected from the Celtics' manager this week.

The Nation-wide Store Team, of Alexandria, will play the Washington Red Sox on Saturday afternoon on Haydon's Field at 3:30 o'clock. On Sunday the Alexandria Storemen will travel to Fort Washington for a game with the post team.

A tombstone tournament will feature at the Belle Haven Golf and Country Club links on Saturday afternoon. Tom Ryan, professional, is arranging for this event. Many entries are expected.

Billy Schwartz, light-heavyweight boxing champion of Virginia, will probably appear in the next card at Fort Washington. The Alexandria boxer is training daily for his next event.

Swavely Prep Meet Draws Large Crowd

Special to The Washington Post.

Manasses, Va., June 4.—The annual track meet incident to commencement week of the Swavely School was held this afternoon before a large number of the parents of the boys, many of whom came from distant points, and a throng of friends here for the week.

The club championship was won by the Whites, with total points of 75, while the Blues were only able to amass a total of 42 points. While no school records were shattered, many of the winners missed by narrow margins, in many of the running events, and the javelin toss of 166 feet 2½ inches needed only an extra foot to place the name of J. Carey on the school tablet.

120-yard high hurdles—C. Fiore, first in 18.4; W. Anderson, second; and J. Carey, third. 220-yard low hurdles—Fiore, first, 29.02; Murdock, second; Noble, third. 100-yard dash—Murdock, first, 10.2; Noble second; McAvoy, third. 220-yard dash—Noble, first, 26.4; Murdock, second; H. Broad jump—Fiore, first, 17.10; Patterson, second; Necrosan, third. High jump—H. McAvoy, first, 4.9; C. McAvoy, second; Gimber and Fyrer, tied for third. Pole vault—Allen, first, 8.6; J. tying his golfing partner, Farrell, at 149. Genta needed two 6s on the last two holes and the veteran Ted Ray's 7 at the eighteenth was enough to eliminate him from the tournament with a score of 160.

The raw weather couldn't keep the Scots off the course—they apparently are used to weather like today—and galleries of several thousand streamed after the leading players.

Horton Smith will be the first away tomorrow on the third round, "tee time" for him being 8 a. m. (2 a. m. Eastern Standard), with Cotton out at 9:02, Armour at 9-18, MacSmith at 9:30, Kirkwood and Farrell together at 10:06, Sarazen at 10:18, Jurado at 10:24, and Hunter at 11:24.

Officials Will Discuss Future of Fort Bouts

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, June 4.—Joseph M. Kelly, secretary of the State Athletic Commission, tonight stated he would confer within the next two or three days with Maj. Patch, commandant of Fort Washington, Md., in reference to the commission's request that boxing bouts at the post be held under its rules and regulations.

Mr. Kelly intimated that no trouble would be encountered in efforts to have the commission and officials of the fort cooperate in holding the bouts.

The State Athletic Commission receives 10 per cent of gate receipts of boxin gbouts held in Maryland.

Frankie Mann, matchmaker for the Fort Washington A. A., informed The Post last night that plans for future bouts at the fort are being held in abeyance. The opening show last Tuesday night drew a capacity crowd of 2,500 persons.

BELLE HAVEN CLUB ADDS 9 HOLES

40 Acres Purchased for $17,500 to Improve Links.

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., June 4.—The Belle Haven Golf and Counttry Club, located on the outskirts of Alexandria, will add nine holes to its present golf course, this giving the Virginia club an eighteen-hole layout. Action on this matter was decided today at the annual meeting of the club.

It was voted to purchase 20 acres additional land, which will be sufficient for the nine holes, at a cost of $17,500. The land will be acquired from the Belle Haven Realty Co. It is expected this move will bring a big increase in membership.

Judge William S. Snow was re-elected as president of the club. Other officers chosen were Herbert Oliver, vice president; C. C. Brown, secretary-treasurer; B. L. Howell, chairman of greens committee; Dr. J. T. Ashton, chairman of house committee; T. E. Sebrell, chairman of golf committee, and Albert V. Bryan, chairman of tennis committee.

The following new members were elected to the board of directors: L. W. Van Bibber, Dr. J. T. Ashton, Charles B. Rollin and Carl L. Budwesky.

FASCISTI IN NEED OF SPORTS LESSONS

flower of the Alps, but the coach of the Italian team, gave such a demonstration of Italian sportsmanship as will be sufficient for a long time.

Mr. Edouardo Garzena, the coach, who moaned and blubbered with Edelweis and raged around the ringside, chewing a rubber sponge, obviously was only trying to kick up a row to cover his own failure. Holding himself largely responsible for the team's previous success and having taken a lot of bows and praise as a great fellow, it was natural that he should think his own prestige would decline a bit when the fighter in whom he took his greatest pride was fairly beaten, but Louis Silica, the New York boy, was a much better fighter, with no such reputation, however, as had been built up in Italy for Edelweis.

Fascists in Gallery Incited to Riot.

Garzena would have averted the squawking and the throwing of knives from the gallery if he had had any idea what sportsmanship was all about. Instead, acting on the psychological principle of the Fascisti march on Rome, he incited the Fascisti upstairs to an outbreak which but for the erratic aim of the blade and a break of luck, might have caused the death of a woman from a knife in the back.

The Metropolitan A. A. U., which forced the recent intercity golden gloves program out of New York by demanding the right to run the opera, again demonstrated its complete incapacity to conduct a meet satisfactorily, for when the Fascisti squawk was at its shrillest the committee of the Metropolitan A. A. U. began to wobble and to appease the Fascisti, withdrew from the ring Joe Jones, the referee in the Silica-Rodriguez fight, who was to have handled one or more subsequent bouts, replacing him with another merely because the Fascisti thought he was responsible for the decision.

The judges then faltered also, and regardless of the fact that Debonis, the American, decisively licked Dellorto, the Italian bantamweight in the fight, awarded the decision to the Italians to soothe the tempers of the Fascisti.

And, anyway, considering the past reputation of their guests in international sport, the Metropolitan A. A. U. should have made some inquiries which might have shown them what sort of conduct they could expect.

Cup Body Names Shields, Wood, Lott and Van Ryn

Youthful Quartet to Carry Hopes of U. S. in Davis Cup Matches Abroad; Fail to Assign Sutter as Alternate.

NEW YORK, May 4 (A.P.).—Frank X. Shields and Sidney B. Wood, the New York youngsters who eliminated Canada and Argentina in the American zone tennis finals, sail tomorrow night for Europe to join George M. Lott and John Van Ryn, Philadelphia pair, in an effort to wrest the Davis Cup from France.

Selection of the team was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis Association after a meeting with the international play committee.

That Shields and Wood would be chosen after their fine showing at Mexico City, Montreal and Washington was a foregone conclusion, but the committee's decision not to send Clifford Sutter, young New Orleans star, as a spare on the squad came as something of a surprise. He won the only singles match entrusted to him against Argentina last week.

Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Tex., who helped eliminate the Mexican team at Mexico City last month, was not a candidate for the European invasion. He and Van Ryn won their doubles match in the challenge round two years ago, but were defeated by Cochet and Brignon, of France, last year.

The team selected is one of the youngest to represent the United States in recent years. Lott and Van Ryn, although veterans of Davis Cup play, are only 25 years old. Shields is 20 and Wood, still a student at the University of Arizona, is only 19. Shields was runner-up to Johnny Doeg for the national singles championship last year.

Watson M. Washburn and Samuel P. Hardy were named as United States delegates to the meeting of the Davis Cup nations at London, June 30. The conference, among other things, will consider a proposal by South Africa that the Davis Cup be competed for biennially instead of annually.

Beach, and Dr. G. Schenck, of Norfolk. Collins couldn't find the cup on the first nine and took a 41, but he came back in par.

Harper Among Favorites to Fail.

Today's play saw the scores of many favorites soar, and among these who will do their playing in the second flight was Chandler Harper, of Portsmouth, State champion. Harper finished in a deadlock with Walter McCullum, of Washington, and G. P. Miller, of Washington, at 82. In the playoff for the two positions Harper lost out on the first hole after missing a short putt.

Alex Knapp, of Baltimore, finalist in the 1930 Middle Atlantic and who beat today's medalist, Caldwell, in the Maryland finals last year, found himself on the outside tonight after banging out a huge 83.

Late starters kept arriving at the bulletin board with scores which lowered the qualifying mark from an expected 85 until those having 82s were forced to play off for position.

The Princess Anne Country Club won the team trophy with a low gross of 322. The Baltimore team came second with 328 and Norfolk's quartet finished third with 335.

First flight pairings for match play, which will start tomorrow morning are:

Ernest Caldwell vs. Thomas Cole.
G. K. Short vs. Pat Dillon.
Billy Howell vs. J. T. Talbot.
Charles Kent vs. Nat Bundy.
Harry Pitt vs. O. F. Miller.
Dr. George Schenck vs. M. P. Nolan.

STOCKS PRICES GAIN AS RALLY PERSISTS

Upturn Is Marked as Tone Improves Generally; Net Rise Holds at Close.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Stocks supported yesterday's pyrotechnics with a broad and active rally today. The gain, on the average, was less than half of the upturns scored on the outburst of short covering in the previous session, but it was decidedly cheering.

Other markets also improved substantially. Wheat, reassured by the announcement that the Government agency would not dump its holdings, firmed and was joined by corn. Cotton followed stocks.

Although Wall street was pleased by the follow-up in today's market—the last big rally flopped almost immediately—brokers were cautious in their comments. The short interest had become top-heavy, for the ranks of professional bears had been augmented by a host of amateurs seeking easy profits, and many firms preferred to wait until the list had been tested by secondary selling before expressing a definite opinion. When the covering has quieted down the type of support then appearing will be closely studied. If recent gains are fairly well held over the next few days conservative observers will doubtless be impressed. Poor second quarter earnings reports are in the offing and business in general has yet to emerge from a seasonal recession. Nevertheless, the dissolution of gloom through a recovery in stocks is heartily welcome.

Shares Open Higher.

Shares opened irregularly higher, but quickly ran into profit-taking and selling by traders who believed the Wednesday rise had been too rapid. Important shares refused to give up more than a point or two, however, and by early afternoon the rails stepped to the fore with a strong demonstration.

An Interstate Commerce decision giving the Great Northern permission to increase freight rates on coal in certain sections and word that Eastern executives were to meet tomorrow to discuss further their own prospective request for higher rates encouraged substantial covering and net gains by leading carriers ranged from 3 to 7 points.

Utilities and industrials quickly fell into step. A. Case, which harbored a large short interest soared 8 points. Eastman Kodak and International Business Machines gained as much. U. S. Steel rushed up to 92. American Telephone to 170½. Westinghouse to 66½, American Can to 101½ and Consolidated Gas to 104¾. Final prices in many instances were a little below the top. Steel closing at 92½, for a net gain of 3¾. With the exception of the rails, advances in pivotal shares ranged from 1 to about 4 points. Sales of 3,200,000 shares were 100,000 less than yesterday.

Copper Tone Improves.

A slightly better tone appeared in the copper market, for large orders at 8 cents went unfilled and some metal went at 8¼. Commodity prices are far from stable. Bradstreet's Index showed a 3 per cent decline during May to the lowest time since 1914.

Official figures on automobile production for last month revealed a 4 per cent shrinkage from April, a loss of seasonal proportions, although it did interrupt an advance that had been in progress since December.

The $35,000,000 loss in brokers' loans reflected the heavy selling of the week ended Tuesday, and the statement, of course, was unable to disclose any effect of yesterday's cut in margin requirements on borrowing. Several brokerage firms reduced their own demands on customers, some announcing that they would admit to margin accounts selling under $10 a share.

June wheat was a little sluggish, but gains elsewhere ran up to 2½ cents a bushel. A lack of rain in Canada and the American Northwest was reported. Corn rallied ¼ to 1¼. Cotton closed 18 to 22 points higher.

There was little fluctuation in foreign exchange rates. Sterling and the peseta were firm. The German mark eased to a new 1931 low.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, June 4 (A.P.).—Intensified drought complaints from Canada furnished stimulus for decidedly higher grain prices today. The major portion of the Canadian wheat crop was reported deteriorating fast, and immediate copious moisture was imperative to prevent irreparable damage. An authoritative unofficial wheat crop summary to be issued at Winnipeg Saturday was expected to make the poorest showing ever known at this time of year.

Wheat closed firm at the day's top figures, 1¼@2c higher; corn, ¼@1¼ advanced; oats, ½@¾ up, and provisions, at 15 to 27 cents gain.

Strength which developed in stocks and cotton aided the wheat market upturns, but Canadian crop advices were regarded in most quarters as chiefly responsible. Some drought relief at various points in Canada was noted, the amount of moisture though being relatively slight and continued dry weather predicted. Unfavorable crop conditions were also reported in eastern Montana and western North Dakota. April and May rainfall in Canada was less than a third of normal, and the crop at present on the verge of extensive and permanent injury.

Spreading operations that involved purchasing of wheat against selling of corn had a special bullish influence on wheat in offsetting fright over action of United States Government sponsored agencies yesterday in suddenly withdrawing wheat purchase orders from the market here and at other leading centers. June wheat contracts displayed notable weakness at times, notwithstanding, and underwent an early transient break of almost 2 cents a bushel. A general impression prevailed that cash wheat would gradually work down to a July basis, and that July would stay rather close to an export level.

Corn and oats followed wheat upward, but lagged owing to spread trading and as a result of fine weather for the new corn crop. Shippers appeared unwilling to buy corn until they first had sold it.

Provisions declined on account of foreign selling of lard, but later advanced with grain and hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, July, 57¾, 60¼@60⅝; September, 58¼, 60½@60⅝; December, 61⅛, 64¼. Corn, July, 56⅜, 58⅜; September, 53, 54⅝; December, 46⅞@47, 48⅞.

BOND PRICES RALLY IN LIGHTER SELLING

Rail Issues Lead Upturn as Wide Gains Mark Foreign Loan Trading.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Led by railroad issues the bond market today made a general advance, although the sales total was somewhat smaller than on Wednesday.

The average price for 30 representative bonds, made up of ten issues each of industrials, railroads and utilities, jumped 0.6 of a point to 93.3 and the average for the ten rails advanced 1.4 points to 96.3.

Net advances ranging from 2 to 6 points were made by several Rock Island issues, Colorado & Southern first 4½s, St. Paul adjustment 5s and 6s of 2000, Kansas City Southern refunding 5s, Illinois Central St. L. Division 3s, Great Northern series D 4½s, Erie series B convertible 4s, Nickel Plate 6s of 1932 and new 4½s of 2013, Missouri Pacific general 4s, and several bonds of th St. Louis, San Francisco. Smaller gains were even more frequent.

The advance in this group was simultaneous with an upturn in rail stocks following the news that the Interstate Commerce Commission had approved an increase in rates on coal to certain sections served by the Great Northern. Another favorable factor was the announcement that subscriptions for the latest Treasury offering of $800,000,000 had exceeded $6,000,000,000 demonstrating again the great demand for gilt-edge bonds. Treasury and Liberty bonds closed higher after dull trading in most of them.

Aside from rail issues most of the widest gains occurred among foreign obligations, which was logical in view of the sharp declines many of this group made when the trend was downward. Public utility bonds were next in order of strength. As a number of bonds in this group are regarded as high-grade investments it was not surprising that their gains should be more modest than the rails, which include numerous speculative issues. Industrial issues were usually unchanged.

Municipal borrowing for the first five months of 1931 aggregated $727,441,466, the largest total on record for that period, according to the Daily Bond Buyer. The corresponding total for last year was $589,356,520. Such borrowing for the same period of 1929 was $537,958,026.

Mr. Atwood will speak at the third session of the convention to be held this year at The Homestead, Hot Springs, Va., June 18 to 21. His subject will be "The Reform of Banking and Business."

Mr. Atwood first began writing articles on financial, economic and occasionally, on governmental subjects, for the Saturday Evening Post in 1914, and has written exclusively and regularly for it since about 1918. In the last few years, he has also been an editorial writer for the same magazine. Paul D. Sleeper, general agent of the Washington and Virginia district, arranged the contest after Mr. Mason joined the $1,000,000 class of insurance writers.

PLUS SIGNS

+ + + IT WILL SURPRISE MANY to learn that 22 per cent of the corporations whose earnings records are available show first quarter increases for this year as compared with last.

+ + + GAIN IN MACHINE TOOL ORDERS since the November lows has been more than seasonal. Wesley Mitchell, the most noted authority on business cycles, says that the machine tool trade normally is the first to show recovery from a business depression.

+ + + BUSINESS FAILURES IN MAY, according to R. G. Dun & Co. records, numbered 2,248, as compared with 2,386 in April and 2,179 last May.

+ + + EARNINGS OF DRUG, INC., (Liggett, Bristol-Myers, Life Savers, Vick, Bayer, &c., &c.) were greater in the first quarter this year than last.

+ + + AUTOMOBILE PRODUCTION AND SALES IN MAY reached a high point for the year to date. Chevrolet with 113,852 cars and trucks had the heaviest production since July, 1929. Their export sales were five times as heavy as in May of last year.

+ + + THE IRVING FISHER INDEX of business activity gained 3.7 per cent during the week ending June 1.

+ + + BANK DEBITS turned up more than 10 per cent last week.

+ + + A SURVEY of all previous American depressions, both major and minor, shows that in each recovery a pronounced upward climb began between June 1 and July 1, the rise coinciding with good prospects for farm crops.

+ + + CONSOLIDATED CIGAR CORPORATION for the first five months this year earned 14c a share more than in the same period last year.

+ + + DURING MAY the general line sales curves of American Can Co. and Continental Can Co. turned upward.

+ + + SUBSTANTIAL IMPROVEMENT IN INDUSTRIAL EMPLOYMENT is one of the bright spots in May.

+ + + INCREASED ACTIVITY IN BUILDING is shown by Department of Commerce reports that new bookings for structural steel in April were 293,600 tons, as compared with 184,400 tons in March and 222,800 tons in April, 1930.

+ + + CHICAGO'S WHOLESALE TRADE, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago, expanded in most groups during April. Gains of 4, 7½ and 4 per cent shown in drug, dry goods, and shoe sales, respectively, were contrary to seasonal trends. The hardware increase of 26 per cent was considerably larger than usual.

+ + + BRADSTREET'S REPORTS OF SALES in 98 lines of business in New York City shows 25 of them equal to 1930 for the week ending May 30.

+ + + SHIPMENTS OF NORGE REFRIGERATORS (Division of Borg-Warner Corporation) for the first five months are 540 per cent ahead of last year.

+ + + KIMBERLY-CLARK CORPORATION has received a contract amounting to several million dollars to supply the text paper for Liberty Magazine over a period of several years.

+ + + INCREASED RETAIL ACTIVITY AND HOPES are shown in estimates that National Cash Register's second quarter net will run around $800,000 as against a deficit of $73,181 for the first quarter.

+ + + THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD CO. has ordered electrical equipment to cost about $16,000,000 from Westinghouse and General Electric.

+ + + IN NEW ENGLAND last month increased activity in the shoe and leather, paper, pulp and forest products industries more than offset reduced operations in the metal, chemical, iron, steel and textile groups.

+ + + 150 OF THE LEADING CORPORATIONS ended the year with total holdings of cash and investment securities worth within less than 1 per cent as much as the corresponding total at the end of 1929.

+ + + THE LEVEL OF COMMODITY PRICES is 52 per cent below the peak and if history repeats itself there should be in the near future a temporary rally (lasting 2 or 3 years) of 25 to 30 per cent.

M'ADOO ADVOCATES ECONOMIC COUNCIL

Outlines Plan to Stabilize Industry and Prevent Unemployment.

San Francisco, Calif., June 4 (A.P.).—Creation of a peace industries board, or "national economic council," to stabilize conditions in industry and agriculture and to prevent waste and unemployment was suggested by William Gibbs McAdoo in an address here tonight.

The former Secretary of the Treasury said the idea grew out of the work of the War Industries Board which supervised industry during the World War. The suggested body would act under the sanction of the Government, he explained, and in an advisory and cooperative capacity.

"Such a board or council," said Mr. McAdoo, "could render service of incalculable value in stabilizing conditions in industry and agriculture and in preventing waste and unemployment. It could also contribute to the prevention of overproduction by determining in advance the amount of national consumption and suggestions.

Power to Investigate.

"It should have no legislative authority, but it should have power to investigate any industry or any concern or any phase of the Nation's economic life and to take testimony and summon witnesses. It should be required to make all its findings public and it should have adequate appropriation to carry on its work. The council should be composed of manufacturers, merchants, agriculturists and representatives of labor and the mining and transportation industries."

Reviewing the growth of American industry, commerce and agriculture, which he said had evolved without any social plan and was wasteful, Mr. McAdoo said there was need for a "new formula for human affairs, in which industry would be devoted primarily in supplying human needs and, secondarily to profits."

"Throughout the world the sun is setting on the theory of the acquisitive society, in which profits are the chief end of all enterprise," continued Mr. McAdoo. "We have gone far enough along the road of civilization to have learned that the acquisitive society—although it develops a high degree of talent—is wasteful, extravagant, inefficient and exceedingly costly."

Epochal Changes Seen.

Mr. McAdoo said the "economic ills" of the country were deep-rooted and every one of intelligence realized there was no universal cure-all.

"Epochal changes in progress in every nation of the earth," he continued, "warn us that we can not complacently stand pat on the old order. They tell us that we must meet the vast and complex problems engendered by modern society with new and original thinking, with courage and vision, if we are to preserve for ourselves and posterity the blessings of liberty and democracy."

The occasion for Mr. McAdoo's address was a dinner sponsored by the Economic Conservation Committee of America. The purpose was to discuss a proposed plan to conserve California's surplus fruit crops for the needy.

Happy Boys Meet Baseball Stars

Cronin, Kuhel, Burke and Schacht Shake Hands With Club Guests.

About 30 "Junior Cosmopolitans" got the thrill of their lives yesterday from shaking hands with Joe Cronin, Joe Kuhel, Bobby Burke and Al Schacht, of the Washington Baseball Team, at the Cosmopolitan luncheon at the Carlton Hotel in honor of the Federation of Boys' Clubs, now being held in this city.

Entertainment was furnished by a group of harmonica players and singers and "Peggy and Ann," of radio fame. Burridge D. Buttler, of the Chicago Boys Club, spoke of the advantage of boys' clubs throughout the country, in that they provide educational work and athletic entertainment.

A representative of the Community Chest, with which the local boys club is affiliated, invited the members to hold a "come and see" meeting at the club, promising a full program of entertainment for the occasion.

Magazine Men to See Bennett on New Tariff

Ottawa, Ont., June 4 (A.P.).—The new Canadian tariff of 15 cents a pound on certain foreign magazines brought to Ottawa today representatives of magazine interests, who expected to confer with Premier Bennett.

The party included W. T. Lucas, secretary of the National Publishers Association, New York, and W. C. White, J. A. Glaven and H. Benjamin, all of Montreal.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Cotton today again was dominated by factors existent by the stock market and, after some feverish changes both ways, developed a strong upward tendency and closed within a few points of the day's best, with the tone of the general list steady, at 18 to 21 points net higher.

The opening was steady, unchanged to 7 points higher, which was only a partial response to a show of firmness in the Liverpool and Egyptian markets, and for a time prices were under the influence of a good deal of selling through commission houses as well as July liquidation. Weather conditions were again highly favorable to the growing crop, although here and there some complaints were received of the need of additional moisture. Private reports were not materially changed, although the action of the market during the day was said to have stimulated a little more activity in dry goods circles.

The early hesitation in the stock market, with numerous rallies and declines, left cotton in doubt, but the subsequent rise in stock values and the reports from Washington of the heavy oversubscription to the Government bond issue seemed to revive confidence, and during the last hour of trading shorts covered heavily. The July price at one time reached 8.49, a net gain of 25 points, October sold down to 8.85, but later July advanced to 8.79, closing at 8.73, and October to 9.15, closing at 9.04.

Sentiment in the market seemed more friendly than for some time, and while it was admitted that basic conditions in the cotton situation were not materially changed, the opinion was expressed that, inasmuch as values had declined largely in sympathy with stocks, it was entirely logical that they should advance when the stock market rallied.

Liverpool cabled that the market there advanced on covering, general buying and on the firmness in Alexandria, as well as owing to a cessation of selling pressure. Exports today, 17,527, making 6,440,223 so far this season. Port receipts, 4,974. U. S. port stocks, 3,171,339.

Drive on District Rodents Planned

Department of Agriculture Expert to Train Six Men for Work.

George J. Adams, jr., executive secretary of the District committee on employment, like Alexander the Great, yesterday was looking about for more worlds to conquer.

Having, with the aid of Frank N. Jarvis, rodent control expert of the Department of Agriculture, disposed of the majority of rats in the razed Center Market area, he announced that a similar drive would be conducted to clear the city of its rodent residents.

Six unemployed men will be trained by Mr. Jarvis on the art of spreading red squill, after which the rat exterminators will be available to householders at the rate of $1 an hour per killer. They should be fully trained and girded for battle within a week or ten days, it is stated.

Minnesota to Spend $10,000,000 on Roads

New York, June 4 (A.P.).—Officials of the State of Minnesota today got legal approval for issuance this year of a $10,000,000 block of highway bonds. After a conference among Attorney General Benson, W. H. Gurnee, assistant attorney general; State Treasurer Julius Schmall, Highway Commissioner Babcock and members of the law firm of Thomson, Wood & Hoffman, it was announced that the attorneys had approved the issue.

The Minnesota Legislature at its 1929 and 1931 sessions authorized highway bond issues totaling $10,000,000 under three acts, but there had been some doubt as to the legality of selling all the bonds this year.

Schall Is Attorney In Suit for Damages

Senator Thomas D. Schall, the blind senator from Minnesota, yesterday appeared as an attorney in the District Supreme Court when he filed a damage suit for $25,000 damages on behalf of Alice E. Krebs, of Baltimore, Md. The suit is against the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

A collision between an oil truck and an automobile in Prince Georges County, Md., September 20 last, is basis for the suit. Tom Davis, of Minneapolis, and John R. Shields, of this city, appear with the senator as attorneys.

Girl Wins $1,000 Award For Automobile Injury

A consent verdict of $1,000 was given Miss Helen Hackworth, of 3714 Morrison street northwest, by a jury in the District Supreme Court yesterday. The suit was the outgrowth of injuries suffered by Miss Hackworth when an automobile driven by Robert W. Bogue, jr., son of Robert W. Bogue, of Oliver street, near Thirty-second street northwest, in which she was a passenger, struck a pole.

Miss Bogue, it was shown, had protested from the rear seat about the maner in which the youth was driving the card. Shortly afterwards, the machine struck a pole near Pooleesville, Md. There were several young people in the car at the time.

Former Stock Salesman Convicted of Embezzling

A jury in Criminal Court No. 3 yesterday brought in a verdict of guilty against Earle Smith, former stock salesman, on a charge of embezzling $500 from Ruth Stead. The case was prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney Julian Richards.

In his own defense Smith said he was given the money to purchase some stock, which he did. The stock later turned out to be worthless, Mr. Richards told the jury, and the woman lost her money.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON TO WEIGH ROAD SURVEY SHARE

Supervisors to Vote on Part in Highway Planning Study June 15.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Arlington County's opportunity to benefit by the cooperative survey and planning of highways sponsored by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Bureau of Public Roads, estimated to cost $40,000, hinges on the payment of $1,000 as its share of the cost, it was revealed yesterday in an agreement prepared by the commission.

Organizations which have agreed to pay their share, the Bureau of Public Roads bearing one-half of the cost, are the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, $10,000; the State Road Commission of Maryland, $2,000; the Virginia State Highway Commission, $2,000; the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, $1,000; the City of Alexandria, $1,000; Prince Georges County, Maryland, $1,000; Montgomery County, Maryland, $1,000, a total of $38,000. The two counties which have not yet agreed to share in the cost are Arlington and Fairfax.

It has been said that unless all parties enter the agreement by July 1 the survey will not be made.

Many reasons are advanced why Arlington County should avail itself of this opportunity, situated as it is with the new Arlington Memorial Bridge rapidly nearing completion. First, the survey is seen as an opportunity to benefit by a study costing $40,000, one-half of which is being borne by the Federal Government for payment of $1,000. Second, the county receives a liberal amount of Federal aid for roads. Third, the survey will provide data to show which roads are of greatest advantage to the traveling public.

It is pointed out that County Engineer C. L. Kinnier has cooperated in every way with the commission.

The county board of supervisors, at its meeting June 15, will consider entering into the agreement to share in the cost of the survey. The Arlington County Civic Federation at its recent meeting went on record as favoring the project and appointed a special committee which will appear at the meeting of the board of supervisors to urge the county to enter into the plan.

Yesterday was the last opportunity for candidates to file for the Democratic nominations for the State Senate and House of Delegates. Race for the State Senate nomination lies between Col. Charles T. Jesse, of Arlington County and John Rust, of Fairfax County. Failure of others to enter the contest for the House of Delegates leaves the incumbent, Hugh Reid, unopposed for the Democratic nomination for that office as representative from Arlington County.

While both Jesse and Rust have been carrying on a quiet campaign, both have perfected strong organizations which have been busy.

Jesse, who served in the House of Delegates as representative from Arlington County three regular terms and at one special session, is backed by political leaders over the entire district, which comprises the counties of Arlington, Fairfax and Prince William. Leaders for Rust are likewise claiming that their candidate will win.

There being no primary for county offices, which will also be filled at the November election, indications are there will be a long ticket with at least three or more candidates for each office except that of membership on the county board, which it is predicted, will draw at least twenty names from which five will be selected.

Presentation of the official flag designed by Miss Betsy Cannon, honor student of the graduating class, featured annual banquet of the senior class of Washington-Lee High School last night.

In presenting the flag which bears the school colors, blue and gray, with the coats of arms of Lee and Washington, Miss Cannon said:

"It seems fitting and proper that the class of 1931, the first to complete the full six-year course in the high school here, should present to the school an emblem to represent it, a mark of complete approval as it were.

"In designing the flag we used our colors, blue and gray, and for decoration we selected the coats of arms of the Washington and Lee families, not because as Americans we attach undue importance to heraldric devices, but because these coats of arms represent the ideals and achievements generations of ancestors produced in the two great Americans for whom this school is named; those qualities and virtues will always be to us a source of inspiration."

In accepting the flag on behalf of the county school board, faculty and students of the Washington-Lee High School, Superintendent Kemp said:

"I want to congratulate members of the class, the largest to ever leave this school, numbering 94. This flag shall always be a pleasant reminder of this evening as one of the outstanding nights of the school year of 1931."

Other speakers were Maj. E. W. Cushing, member of the county school board; S. P. Vanderslice, principal of the school; Allen Willis, president of the class, and Miss Lillian Handy, vice president. Mrs. Frances Bell acted as toastmistress. Music was furnished by the school band.

Mrs. Sadie Ellis was elected councilor of Ballston Council No. 20, Daughters of America, at its meeting last night in auditorium of the Firemen's Hall. Other officers are: Mrs. Evelyn Garrison, associate councilor; Mrs. Carrie Turner, vice councilor; Miss Emma Collins, associate councilor; Mrs. Effie Hackley, recording secretary; Mrs. Nellie Pyles, financial secretary; Mrs. Nettie Pettitt, treasurer; Mrs. Arthur Gooding, assistant recording secretary; Mrs. Notie Huffman, warden; Mrs. Marie Goldsmith, conductor; Mrs. Wise, inside sentinel; Mrs. Annie Hansborough, outside sentinel and Mrs. Ethel Spitzer, trustee for 18 months.

Newly elected officers will be installed July 7.

Having a credit of 38 points, M. B. Fayne won the sweepstakes prize at the first annual flower show of the Marcroft Garden Club, which closed yesterday in the community house. Mrs. H. L. Wilson and G. Spence tied for second place with 11 points each.

PETIGREE'S ENTRY WINS SHOW HONOR

Light Hampson Is Adjudged Champion; Runaway Thrills Virginians.

Special to The Washington Post.

Middleburg, Va., June 4.—Light Hampson, Flying Horse Farms, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sumner Petigree, of Boston, was judged the champion hunter at the tenth annual Middleburg hunter show, held on the estate of Col. D. C. Sands, master of the Middleburg Hunt. Hunters competed in seventen classes.

Some of the consistent winners were Arthur White, of Middleburg; Peach Bros., of Upperville; Mrs. J. H. Whitney, of Llangollen Estate; and Miss Julia Whiting and D. O. Furr, of Middleburg.

Excitement was caused when Silk Hat, owned by Courtney H. Smith, of The Plains, and ridden by Frost Anderson, ran wild after throwing his rider at the first hurdle. Jumping out of the ring, the horse ran into the crowd, causing consternation, and did not stop until he had knocked down a horse with his rider, Miss Anne Tennant, jumped over an automobile, caused other horses to break loose, and tore off his hip cap when he ran into an automobile.

Runaway Badly Injured.

He was then caught by Stanley Green, of Leesburg. The horse was so badly injured that it is thought he will not be shown in the ring any more.

Judges were William Almey, jr., of Boston, and Bernard Fenwick, of Baltimore. Miss Fannie Whitfield, of Middleburg, was secretary of the show.

CHIEFS TO BE NAMED FOR MARLBORO FAIR

Eleven New Cars Purchased for Prince Georges Police Force.

Annual meeting of stockholders and directors of the Marlboro Fair will be Monday in Marlboro. Officers and executives will be elected by the board of directors.

Directors of the fair are also directors of the Bowie race track. Bowie stockholders' meeting, held last month, resulted in selection of a new manager to replace John A. Farrell, who was made vice president.

Change is said to be result of a compromise between an attorney for the majority stockholders and the board of directors, which favors Farrell. Another provision of the compromise was ousting of Joseph Farrell, John Farrell's brother, who had served as assistant manager.

After the Bowie election, Vernon Eaton, Baltimore attorney who acts for the majority stockholders, said he was satisfied with the slate chosen. He has declined, however, to say what action he will take at the Marlboro meeting.

Eleven new automobiles have been purchased for the new Prince Georges County police force which will take office Tuesday, according to James S. Heal, clerk to the board of county commissioners. The force was appointed some time ago, but members have not yet arranged for bonds and uniforms, which each policeman must furnish for himself.

It is reported that Jeremiah J. Crowley, chief of the new force, is drawing up a set of regulations for conduct of the policemen. It is expected he will confer with Alvin A. Moxley, chief of police of Montgomery County.

It is understood present plans call for Sergt. A. W. Hepburn to be stationed in Marlboro, leaving either Chief Crowley or Sergt. H. G. Machen in charge of the Hyattsville substation. It is thought most likely, however, that Machen will be in charge of the station in the north end of the county, leaving Chief Crowley to divide his time between the two stations.

Question of housing the police offices also remains to be decided. It is expected the Hyattsville office will be established in the First National Bank building recently leased by the county, but this will not be ready for occupancy for some time. Present office of W. E. Posey, farm agent, in the courthouse, has been suggested for the Marlboro station. There are several other rooms in the courthouse vacant, but none of them is so desirable.

Three men and a woman were fined in Hyattsville Police Court on liquor charges, while there were two trials of alleged disorderly house charges.

Men taken on liquor charges were John B. Gentle, I street northwest near Ninth street, second offense, possession, $200; speeding, $25; Robert Pennington, Twelfth street northwest near N street, possession, $150; Charles Brooks, colored, possession, $200. The woman was Jean Cummings, who was arrested after a raid on her house on the Edmonston road. She was fined $100 on a possession charge. All were arrested by Constable Ralph Brown.

BISHOP CANNON SUIT FILED TO CLEAR NAME

Churchman Says $500,000 Case Against Tinkham Will Exonerate Him.

(Associated Press.)

Bishop James Cannon, jr., said yesterday his $500,000 libel suit against Representative Tinkham, of Massachusetts, was filed "to determine whether I am a shameless violator of the Federal corrupt practices act."

In his suit, filed Wednesday, the churchman said a statement made by Mr. Tinkham in June, 1930, charged him with violating the corrupt practices act and damaged his reputation as a churchman and citizen.

The Massachusetts representative has charged the Southern Methodist bishop with failure to comply with the law by not reporting $48,300 he received from E. C. Jameson, of New York, to use against Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 presidential election. Bishop Cannon has challenged the authority of two Senate committees to investigate how he spent the money.

"On June 20, 1930," Bishop Cannon's statement Wednesday said, "Representative Tinkham, after delivering a 3,000-word attack under congressional immunity, when I denounced such cowardly conduct, gave to the press 135 carefully chosen words.

"I have waited twelve months, but no criminal prosecution has been initiated against me. Now, because the statute of limitations would bar any suit against Representative Tinkham after June 20, I have brought suit so that these charges may be investigated and tried, not by the Senate committee, which has no jurisdiction, but by the courts which will determine whether I am a shameless violator of the Federal corrupt practices act, and whether I have illegally concealed receipt or disposition of the Jameson contributions, as Representative Tinkham declares."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

ELMER TWITCHELL'S BALLOON TRIP.

(The following diary revealed for the first time that, following the flight of Prof. Piccard over Switzerland, Mr. Twitchell and a man named Gus had made an excursion into the stratosphere.)

* * * *

7 A. M.—We are off to the stratosphere!....What shall we find?....Who knows?....One thing is certain....we shall get away from those headlines on the stock market.

7:30 a. m.—My companion, Gus, wants to know where we are going....I tell him it makes no difference so long as we find no pessimists there....Gus doesn't want his last name to get into the newspapers....His wife thinks he is out gathering rocks for her rock garden.

* * * *

8 a. m.—We are now so far above the earth that we can not see it....Considering the condition it is in, this is a great relief.

8:20 a. m.—You can imagine the height we have attained when I tell you that even with the most delicate instruments we are now unable to hear anybody howling about the big break in Telephone and Steel....The feeling is delightful.

9 a. m.—We have ascended four miles above the gloom strata....We can look in all directions and not see anything depressing....We are hysterical with joy....Gus is chortling continuously....I ask him why he is so tickled....He replies that he is thinking of his broker trying to reach him with a margin call.

10 a. m.—We are now passing through blue atmosphere....This is very curious....Gus says we must be directly over Wall street.

* * * *

10:15 A. M.—It is now possible to study gamma rays....I reach out and clutch a handful, but there is no place to put them....Gus forgot to bring a bottle!

10:45 a. m.—One thing is unaccountable. We can't understand how we can be up in the air so long and not see Capt. Hawks.

11:10 a. m.—Our balloon just struck something....We were both hurled to the bottom of the cabin....Our instruments show the impact occurred at a height of nine miles above the earth....We can't make out what we hit....It may have been the peak of the 1929 market.

11:45 a. m.—The air is getting thinner....We are both breathing through our ears....It is very satisfying to be going up like this when everything else is going down.

* * * *

1 P. M.—We have just passed through a great field of paper....We reach out and pull some pieces in....They are warrants issued in July, 1929, to subscribe to stocks at what was then thought low levels....We nearly die laughing.

2 p. m.—We are now ten miles above the earth....This is equivalent to 26 miles above business.

3 p. m.—Something is wrong....We have been up all day without getting an offer to write the story for an American newspaper syndicate.

4:10 p. m.—We must descend at once....Gus has just realized that he forgot to bring along those dyspepsia tablets he was supposed to take in cold water every two hours.

HOLIDAY WEEK-END.
Off for the holiday
Tired and sore;
Home again, home again—
Worse than before!

To seaside, to seaside
All bothered and hot;
Home again, home again,
Wishing I'd not.

Prof. Piccard says he found blue air at 50,000 feet. As any New Yorker can tell him, it isn't necessary to go that high for it.

"President Says Spirit of '76 Is Needed to Restore Prosperity."—Headline. 1776 bid: 1929 asked.

LITERARY NOTE.

"I want that new children's book," said the giggling mother at the department store book counter, "the one about spinach."

"About spinach?" questioned the clerk, quite puzzled. "Oh, I know what it is: 'Green Hill!'"
